KISKI AREA HIGH SCHOOL

out of the shadows

s the mythical phoenix supposedly reappeared with the dawn of every new age of the world, divinely ascending to glory from its shadowy ashes, so returned the beloved mascot to guide the future of the school. Having lain fallow for two decades, the reincarnate Kiski Cavalier at last returned his proudly discriminate, steely-eyed gaze both to the field and to the cover of the Campus yearbook in the year two thousand and six. Having found the changes to his liking, the stout royalist comrade once again raised his sword to honor his newly renovated home and tipped his plumed hat to the potential of the incredible senior class. In glorious tribute to his divinely influenced values, the majestic Cavalier put his buskins to any apathetic attitudes that had permeated the school in his absence, thus restoring a sense of pride to Kiski students.

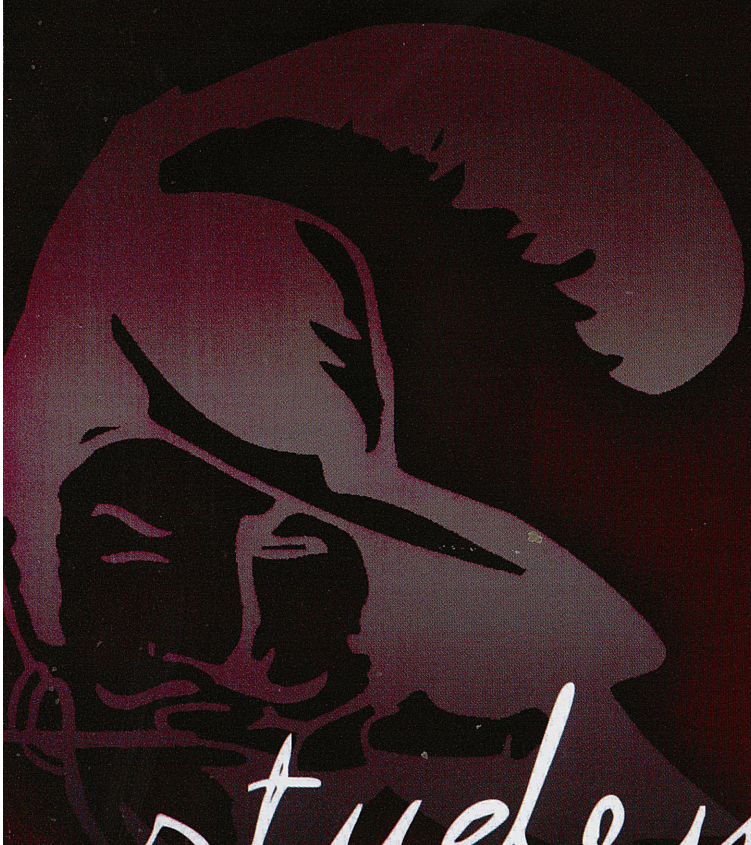

Until the repeated hatching of this phoenix, nothing could set it apart from a blue jay or an ostrich. Consider, then, the egg, a captivating object in and of itself. The color, the size, and the durability of the shell: three magnificent and fascinating, but nonetheless superficial, qualities. Astonishingly, the true value of the egg lies in its destruction, in the emergence of new life from its warm, shadowy interior. Likewise, while the many images of the senior class presented in this slim volume will indubitably conjure fond memories of pleasant times for their temporally estranged counterparts, their true significance lies in the providence of those faces captured on the pages. Let the bright futures of the seniors speak for themselves as they hatch from their protective shells to discover and subdue whatever wonders await them beyond the confines of that shared nest, Kiski Area High School.

The community nest itself changed a great deal over the last four years as the renovation program transformed Kiski Area High School from a traditional, campus-style school to a veritable flagship of modern educational architecture. To the shared delight and relief of both students and faculty, the two thousand five-two thousand six school year set the stage for the first time contemporary students utilized the campus without the strain of construction. With its new and restored classrooms, broad, clean hallways and large, illuminating windows, the final stage of construction brought a sense of proud contentment to all who entered.

Looking to the future, the Campus staff recorded its present to give insight into the past, and in so doing, renewed the enduring virtues intrinsic to the philosophy of Kiski Area High School, and brought the ever-vigilant spirit of the Kiski Cavalier out of the shadows.

Out of the shadows

trading places for a day...

In an attempt to dress up as each other, April Maritz and Dallas McCluske switch personalities and clothes on Halloween day. When asked how long it took to fix her hair, April said,

"Dallas was to arrive at my house by 5:00 AM and didn't get there until six. We got it done in a little under an hour." Some referred to April's spikes as "weapons of mass destruction."

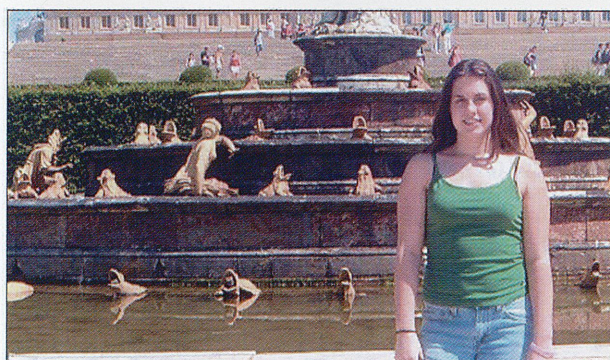

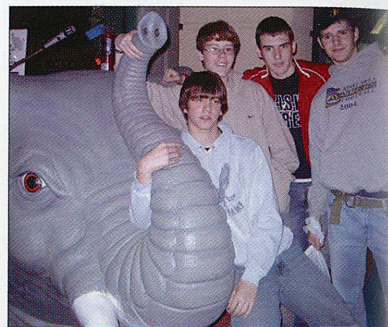

VISITS TO FOREIGN

On a Mission

During the summer of 2005, senior Dave Lang went on a missionary trip with the Greater Works Outreach Youth Team of Monroeville to supply one hundred-fifty orphans living in the Hogar de Amor y Proteccion al Niño, "The Home of Love and Protection for Children" in Colima, Mexico. Dave recalled how he fared in a soccer game he organized for the children. "I got my butt kicked by little seven-year-olds," he said. Dave remembered praying with another church group and meeting a seven-year-old girl named Nayely who neither spoke nor understood English, but communicated with him using informal hand signs.

Brandon Drobka, Steve Jones, Keith Hampshire, and Jeff Hessom enjoy the scenery at the Niagara Falls Rainforest Cafe. On the dining experience Keith said, "It was like eating in the middle of the Amazon." Choir members chose a cheeseburger, a chicken sandwich, or pasta for their meals.

Elyse Skowronek graces the front of a Versailles fountain. While Elyse loved both the beautiful landscape and the architecture of France, she hated that the natives seemed not to wear deodorant.

Jocelyn Tague lounges in the Aruba sun on a family trip in honor of her grandparents' 50th wedding anniversary.

COUNTRIES

Maria Previni, Emily Newcomer, Nicole Blanciak, Krista Badac, Lindsey Plowman, Matt Klingensmith, Deanna Klick, Ed Newell and Abe Waddell take in the scenery on the long bus trip to Toronto. When asked about riding on the motor coach, Maria said, "The ride to Toronto was a blast! It was amazing how many ways you could find to sleep in such cramped spaces." Mrs. Rupert and her choirs competed in Toronto and spent three days sightseeing in Canada.

Kiski Scholars Learn Abroad

Stories written by Steve Keslar and Patrick Kessler

No country could compare to the United States of America, right? Many Kiski students recently ventured outside the nation to find out.

Senior Dave Lang traveled to Colima, Mexico on a missionary trip with the Greater Works Youth Team. On this trip, he worked at an orphanage entertaining the children. Even with undrinkable water, Dave claimed the food tasted amazing. "I know it's hard to believe, but the food was better than Taco Bell," he said. Dave intended to return as soon as possible.

Madame Brady traveled with Elyse Skowronek, Emily Newcomer, Kelsey Shoupe, and Kristin Rea to Paris, France for one week. "It was really weird hearing a language other than English being spoken by everyone," said Elyse. On the trip, the French club students did not only see the tourist sights France had to offer, but they also experienced the grim reality of European hygienics. Even so, Emily and Elyse agreed that the trip brought a lot of fun and it made them want to see more of Europe.

Additionally, the chorus ensembles traveled to Toronto, Canada on their annual chorus trip. About 150 students went on the trip where the show choirs received first and second place at an adjudication festival. The students attended a Broadway production of Wicked and visited the Sky Dome. "Except for the maple syrup, Canada just couldn't compare to the United States," said Katherine Ross.

Although these and many other students traveled outside the U.S. this summer, overall it seemed everyone could agree, "There's no place like home."

Dave Lang holds two of his most precious friends, America and Andrea. When asked about the girls, Dave said, "America's parents named her as a reflection of their hope for her." Dave traveled to Colima, Mexico with his church to deliver supplies and help to an orphanage.

I IN ALL HER

Reign Without Rain

Stories written by Dan Aiello

Coach Heater extends a low-five to Phil Stephenson. When asked about the addition of Harleys to the pre-game festivities, Coach said, "It was an electrifying way to introduce the players." Before each home game, the Harleys escorted the team from the high school to Davis Field.

The Class of 2006, for the first time in their high school career, had the chance to experience a Homecoming without torrential weather conditions. With the court announced a mere twelve days prior to the crowning, a buzz like no other spread through the school as students wondered who would receive the 2005 Homecoming Queen honor.

Although the homecoming game turned south early for the mighty Cavaliers, suspense continued to heighten. At halftime, Queen nominees Jenny Laero, Brittany Markle, Emily Mann, Lindsay Plowman, Samantha Shaner and Ashley Zalewski took the field with escorts Greg Brozovich, Jordan Stone, Dustin Walker, Chase Pityk, Randy Radebach and Mike Wasilchak as they awaited the nerve-wracking announcement.

A hush fell over the crowd as the public address announcer came on the system at Davis Field. After a seemingly endless pause for dramatic effect, the announcer declared Ashley Zalewski the 2005 Homecoming Queen. "I was so thrilled and stunned. All I wanted to do was cry," said Ashley after her victory. Although the energy of the Homecoming Queen announcement did not spill over into the latter stage of the game versus McKeesport, the Homecoming experience left an indelible memory for not just the graduates of 2006, but for all who attended.

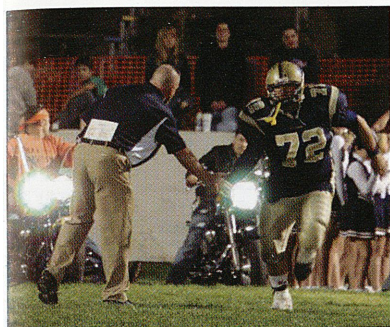

The 2005 Kiski Homecoming Court poses in front of the huge KA created by Student Council.

Members included Jenny Laero, escorted by Greg Brozovich; Emily Mann, escorted by Dustin Walker; Brittany Markle, escorted by Jordan Stone; Lindsay Plowman, escorted by Chase Pityk; Sam Shaner, escorted by Randy Radebach; and Ashley Zalewski, escorted by Mike Wasilchak. Following this photo session, the entire court paraded through Vandergrift to uphold a long-standing Cavalier tradition.

CROWNING GLORY

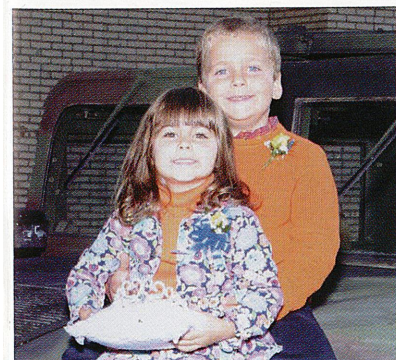

Shown below, 2004's Homecoming Queen, Hailey Gearhart, bestows the crown to the new queen, Ashley Zalewski. "Homecoming was an honor and a truly unforgettable experience," said Ashley. In the future, Ashley hoped to go to a four year college to become a physician's assistant.

On the Move

The Homecoming parade kicked off the September 30 festivities as the mascot, cheerleaders, band, homecoming court and Student Council representatives marched through the streets of Vandergrift. Although the 2005 Homecoming parade only consisted of one float, many people observed, waved and clapped on the sidewalks of Franklin and Grant Avenues. Mr. Fran Pugliese and his sister Danielle designed the "KA Cavs" float that represented the high school. Student Council Vice President Lyle Clark said, "The float only took two days to create." The parade helped to generate a joyous atmosphere on the Homecoming eve.

Crown bearers for the event Adam and Alyssa Poleski sit proudly on the Homecoming Hummer.

Much to the dismay of their onlooking parents, the court jestingly dishes out some pre-event antics.

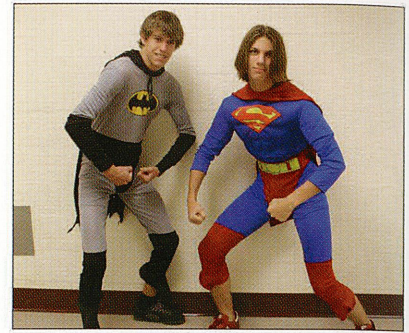

MANIC MONDAY

Super Sonic Steve

Perhaps the most extraordinary costume of Halloween 2005 belonged to junior Steve Mszyco. He decided to dress up as one of the most beloved video game characters of all time, Sonic the Hedgehog, because he loved the original Sega Genesis game. Using a stuffed animal as his model, Steve doubled its dimensions, cut them out of blue fleece, and sewed them together. Steve enjoyed showing off the enormous head, oversized red sneakers, and hilarious scattering gold rings. In the end, the overall cost for the costume reached approximately $70. "I hoped to get more than my money back on Ebay," said Steve when questioned on the costume's fate.

Josh Woods and Jordan Atchison stand ready to save the world as Batman and Superman. "I thought everybody would appreciate the size of the costume," said Josh about why he chose to dress as the caped crusader. Josh and Jordan actually preplanned their quest to rid the world of crime.

Shayne Brown dressed as a present day soldier, and Gene Frederick dressed as Abe Lincoln, unite to ward off the ghosts and ghouls of All Hallow's Eve.

Molly, Brynn, Nikki, Susan, Linsey, and Alison show their love for sports. That night the Steelers beat the Ravens 20-19.

MASQUERADE

Gina Deluca, Lacey Robb, Brittany Markle, Liz Kraus, Bonny Seighman, Jena Gardone, Nicole Wilson, April Pollock, Jena Karafinski, and Brittany Herbeck don their swashbuckling attire. On their theme choice, Nicole said, "We actually threw the costumes together only two days before." The girls aimed to make the class of 05 jealous and give 07 something to live up to.

Costumers Unveil Alter-Egos

Stories written by Courtney Grafton

Halloween originated with the ancient Celtic celebration of the Day of the Dead, in which worshippers held rituals around a fire, holding séances and attempting to predict the future. At Kiski, Halloween became an especially welcome tradition wherein students and teachers alike dressed in costume on October 31st to express themselves or take a walk on the wild side. Countless students exercised their creativity by roaming the halls in disguise. For some, costumes served to frighten or shock the onlooker. Others dressed up to express their originality. "Halloween was a day when our inner freak shined through and we got rewarded with candy for it. What could be better?" said Meagan Mszyco who posed as a pirate on this festive holiday.

Around every corner waited a spellbinding witch, a blood-thirsty vampire, a magical Walt Disney character, or even a human-sized cardboard cutout of the Periodic Table of Elements. As the students and faculty of Kiski knew, one could never grow to old to dress up on Halloween. "I don't think there should ever be an age limit on Halloween. It's supposed to let you get out of your natural state, and be someone that you are not," said Brittany Coulter, who sported a Puritan outfit in honor of her World Cultures class. The magic of Halloween and the smell of chocolate lingered in the air on that ancient day of terror, tricks, and treats.

Lauren Roberts, Amanda Stubbs, Kasey Serena, and Samantha Shaner recall their early years proudly clad in scout uniforms. When asked about her favorite Girl Scout cookie, Kasey said, "Nothing beats a Trefoil!" Reflecting a scouting ideal, all four girls served the community through Key Club.

MONEY

Heigh-Ho-Heigh-Ho, To School and Work We Go

Stories written by Alex Nigra

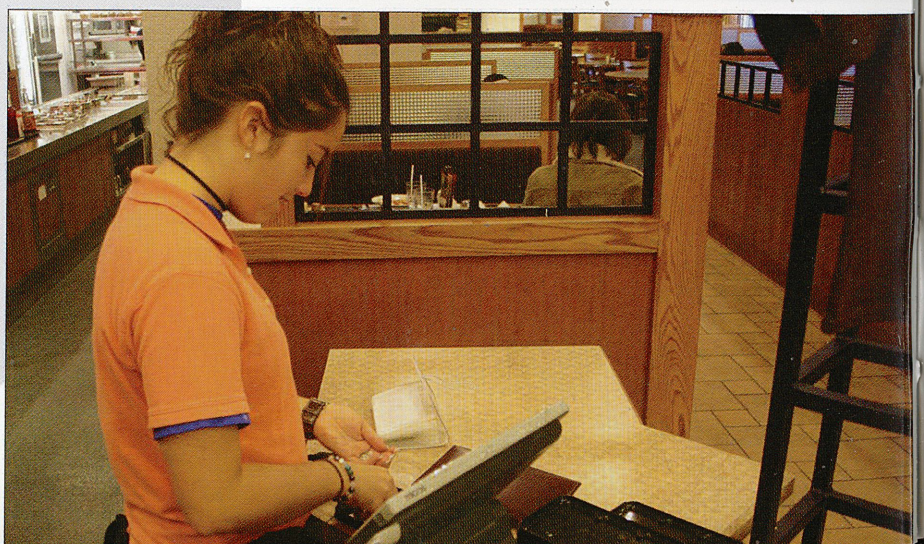

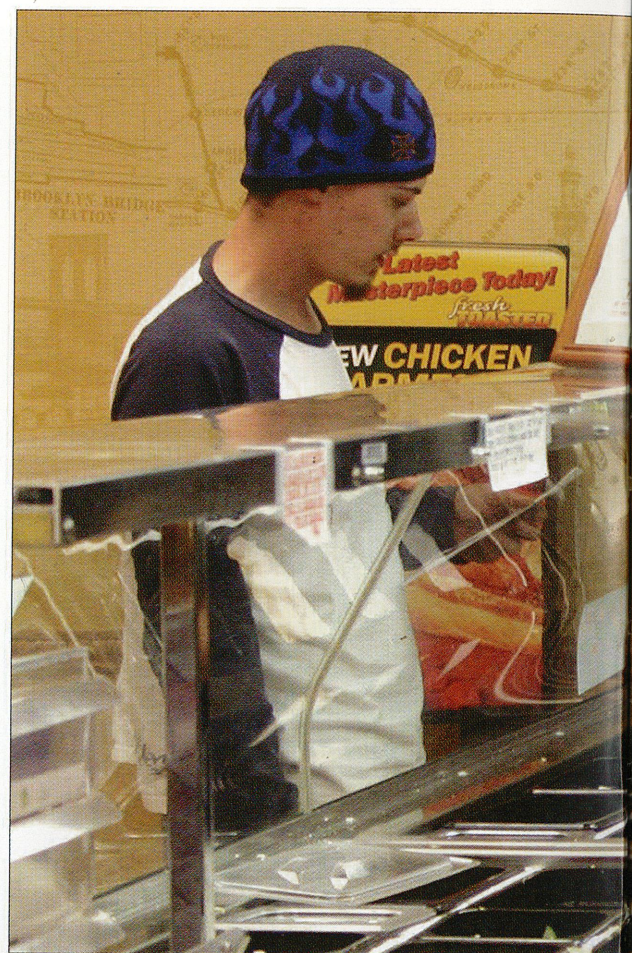

Students' jobs and reasons for having them varied as greatly as the students themselves. Most students said that they sought jobs for extra spending money, while some realized that they could turn a hobby that they enjoyed into a profitable business. The labor that went into these jobs ranged from the heavy and manual to the delicate and precise.

Matt Wehrle's job laying asphalt on privately owned lots for Alle-Kiski Pavement involved heavy, strenuous labor and physical strength. When asked how he spent his money, Matt said that he took his friends to the movies and bought things for himself such as video games and skateboarding gear.

At the other end of the spectrum, Dakota Kanas employed meticulous care and a flair for design and fashion in her sewing business. Dakota decided to turn her hobby into a business based on requests. When asked about what new things she created, Dakota said, "Right now I've been working on blankets, which have kind of started up a little business for me. People have been e-mailing me ordering blankets, especially with the Steeler logo on them." When asked if she planned on pursuing a career using her skills, Dakota said she would like to take fashion design as a minor in college to create dresses and possibly wedding dresses, but she really wanted to pursue law or cancer research. The initials D.K. may not always stand for Donna Karan.

Junior Rachel Wilkin makes the correct change for a customer at the Allegheny Township Kings Restaurant. "Making your own change was a major pain, especially for takeout orders because you didn't get tips," said Rachel about using money pouches for change instead of a cash register. Rachel further said that she spends most of her earnings on clothes and gasoline.

Junior Krystal Deangelo wipes the front counter at the Hyde Park Mickey D's. When asked about the worst job at McDonald's, Krystal said, "I haven't had to clean the bathrooms yet, but that would be the pits." Previously, Krystal earned spending money by babysitting around her neighborhood.

IN THE BANK

Senior Kim Mulvany readies herself to make a sandwich for an evening customer. On prepping the toppings, Kim said, "I couldn't stand to cut the onions. They smelled up the whole place." Kim also played for the varsity softball team.

By the Numbers

While many students considered their time spent at school a full-time job, others worked outside of the school as well. From cashiers to cooks, students held a great variety of jobs. Nearly six percent of freshmen, eighteen percent of sophomores, thirty-eight percent of juniors, and forty-five percent of seniors surveyed said that they held jobs outside of school. Some underclassmen said that scarcity of jobs for people of their age prevented them from having one. Students held jobs to have money to spend on themselves, their friends, and their family. Many saved their money to use for college tuition.

Senior Bethany Brusco scans in groceries at the Kiski Giant Eagle. Many shopped at the "Big Bird" because of gas perks.

Senior Greg Brozovich empties a basket of fries to complete a small order at the Plum Boro Original Hot Dog Shop. Many claimed that the "O" served the best fries around.

S WAMPED IN

Holly Jolly Jacobs

Mrs. Jacobs, the much-lauded director of this year's play, The Legend of Sammy's Swamp, began her involvement with Kiski's drama department two years ago, and moved into the director's seat last year with the memorable Sherlock Holmes. In addition to directing the play, Mrs. Jacobs taught tenth grade English, sponsored the Drama Club, and recently became the mother of a baby boy, Conner. Her good humor, talent, and unending compassion for her students made her well loved within the school. Her fantastic personality also extended to her son, who frequented many rehearsals and practices throughout the play's production.

Krista Badac stares off into space as her character ponders the meaning of everything. Krista said, "The Legend of Sammy's Swamp was tons of fun to be in. I'm really glad I got to be a part of it." Krista lived in Melwood Manor with a younger brother and an older sister.

Bennett Golden and Maria Bruno discuss the loss of his lover in the play. Along with acting, Bennett served as president of the Coalition for Acceptance club.

Meaghan Mszyco, Susan Lege, Maria Bruno, Lyle Clark, and Max Moio act out a scene during dress rehearsal.

AUTUMN MYSTERY

Steve Lucas, who played Mr. Peterson/Swamp Ghost, recalls fake encounter with the ghost to Alyssa Bruno, who played school teacher Mrs. Flagg. "The best part of the play was that no one could recognize me when I entered the stage as the hobo," said Steve. He also played a leading role in Beauty and the Beast this spring.

Students Swamped with Creativity

Stories written by Josh Barszczewski

Before practice began for each of the many rehearsals for the fall play, The Legend of Sammy's Swamp, the cast participated in a warm up routine. Some of the more prevalent ones included playing tag around the auditorium, or one student having two conversations with two people simultaneously. Sophomore Katlin George said, "My favorite game was 'What-are-you-doing?'" The game consisted of the young thespians acting out different actions, such as: skiing, tying a shoe, or childbirth. It created tons of laughs from the participants and brought about the necessary energy to perform the wildly funny play.

However, the laughter did not end as the warm up routines did. During rehearsal, the actors laughed at the zany humor consistent throughout the play. "It was hard to concentrate because of how hilarious the play is," said Katlin George. While certainly creating a nice environment for everyone involved, it soon became absolutely necessary to focus and work with great intensity.

The intense focus and work soon paid off, as the crowds enjoyed the play immensely. It provided the audience as much fun as it provided the cast. From the very beginning to the shocking end, audiences shall always remember The Legend of Sammy's Swamp as a complete success.

The complete cast and crew gather for an interesting shot. Cast member Cheryl Fedorchak said, "The most hilarious part of the play was when the actors improvised lines during the tech week of rehearsals." Cheryl also served two years as business editor of the Campus yearbook.

B RINGING DOWN

Cast Gives "Shrewd" Performance

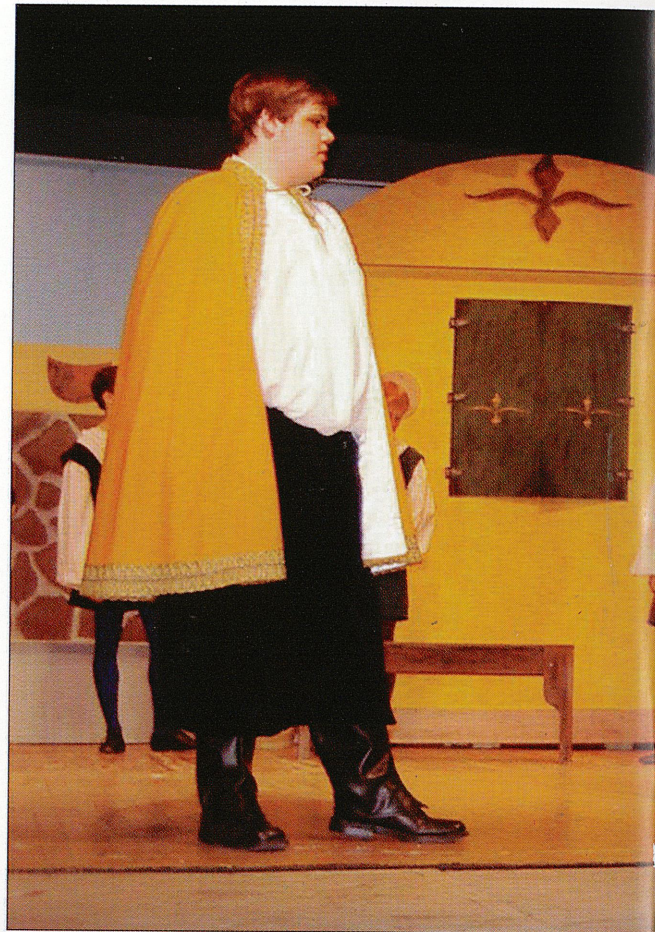

Stories written by Ashley Urik

As the curtain rose on Kiss Me Kate's opening night, the audience found that they received much more than they'd bargained for because the musical contained two plays in one. The plot, derived from Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew, followed the tumultuous relationship of divorcees Lilli Vanessi (played by Danielle Howard) and Fred Graham (Patrick McDermott). The former couple reunited to star in the musical and chaos ensued.

Although the musical had a chaotic plot, director Mrs. Ellen Rupert managed to keep the bedlam following the script. The cast diligently practiced from ten to fifteen hours per week from the start of January to the show's opening in March. Kimberly Stewart's impressive choreography and the instrumental accompaniment of the pit band under Mr. Shawn Pityk's leadership both contributed to the show's overwhelming success. In spite of their busy schedules, the cast still managed to enjoy some carefree moments. "During the song 'Too Dam Hot,' everybody who was not onstage had a little dance party backstage, and it was extremely enjoyable," said Emily Newcomer. Despite the best efforts of the cast and crew, the musical had its share of problems. "Because of the numerous snow days we lost valuable rehearsal time," said Kayla Harmish. Overcoming all such obstacles, Kiss Me Kate wowed its audience and left the crowd wanting more.

Gangsters Ed Newell and Josh Humphrey persuade Danielle Howard, Katherine, to stay on stage and finish the show. When asked about stage comedy, Eddie said, "I loved being the comic relief of a show. It made you a big crowd pleaser and I loved being in the spotlight." Ed played the role of Gaston in this year's production of "Beauty and the Beast."

Bianca, Alyssa Bruno, meditates with her father, Patrick Sylves, during her sister Katherine's wedding. When asked about playing opposite Max Moio, Alyssa said, "We spent every scene going back and forth trying to outperform each other. It made for a spectacular chemistry between us." Alyssa played a major role in every musical she has participated in at the high school.

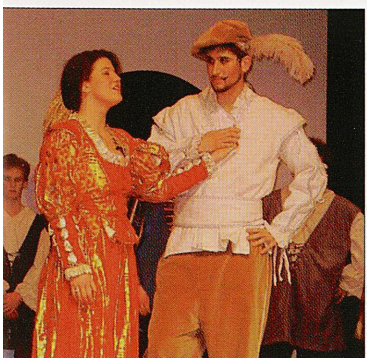

THE HOUSE

Patrick McDermott, Petruchio, explains to the townsmen the importance of marrying well in "I've Come to Wive It Wealthily in Padua."

When asked about stage fright, Matt Klingensmith said, "I think if you didn't get nervous, you shouldn't have been up there." When the seniors voted for Class Vocalist, Matt came in a close second to Max Moio.

Patrick McDermott, Petruchio, tally tames Danielle Howard, Katherine the Shrew.

Past seniors and Lindsey Plowman, Kayla Hamish, Morgan Gengo, Krista Badac, and Emily Newcomer provide the background vocals in "Bianca."

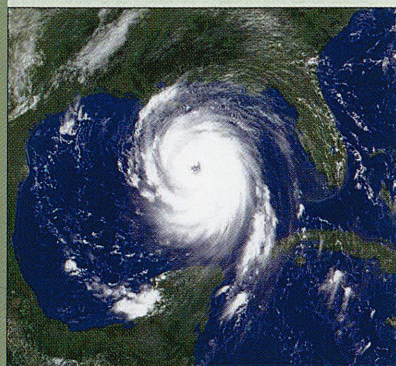

Behind the Scenes

While the actors of the spring musical Kiss Me Kate put on a spectacular performance, the stagecrew labored tirelessly behind the scenes. From early February, members of the stage crew began designing and building sets and props for the play. During the production in mid-March, the stage crew moved and changed the sets and props between scenes. "With not only the crew backstage but the cast and props as well, the backstage area was crowded, making our job difficult sometimes," said Liza Zatezalo. The week before the musical, the stage crew rehearsed heavily. Due to the unflagging efforts of the stage crew, Kiss Me Kate succeeded phenomenally.

BLOOD. SWEAT

Storms Siege States

During 2005, as the winds of change blew cold, strong, and fast with devastating earthquakes, continued terrorist acts, and unforgiving tsunamis, the raging scorn of nature treated the United States as badly as any other nation on Earth. Following the tragic fall of New Orleans, the powerful tropical storm Rita changed her course to threaten residents of Texas and southwestern Louisiana. Perhaps the most devastating effects locally at the high school resulted from Hurricane Tammy when she blanketed the Baltimore area with the worst rains seen in its history and left the Kiski Marching Band without a venue to perform their Queen show. The catastrophes of 2005 demonstrated that we had to weather the weather, whatever the weather, whether we liked it or not.

Nicole May looks away as she gives blood. "I was very happy to donate blood because it was for a good cause," she said. Unfortunately, looking away apparently did not work because shortly after donating, Nicole fainted.

Brad Anthony looks on as Morgan Gengo collects spare change for the victims of devastating Hurricane Katrina.

AND TEARS

Chorale members ready themselves to infiltrate the school with their money jars. When asked about why she chose to collect funds, Mrs. Rupert said, "We all really needed to give up a little to help Americans in a situation that was truly dire." From homeroom period through 2:30 in the afternoon, the students, teachers, and staff raised $4925.73 to benefit hurricane victims.

Students Storm School

Stories written by Josh Barszczewski and Pat Kessler

"Kiski Cares" became the mantra for the 2005-2006 school year. Throughout the year, both students and staff of Kiski showed remarkable compassion and goodwill.

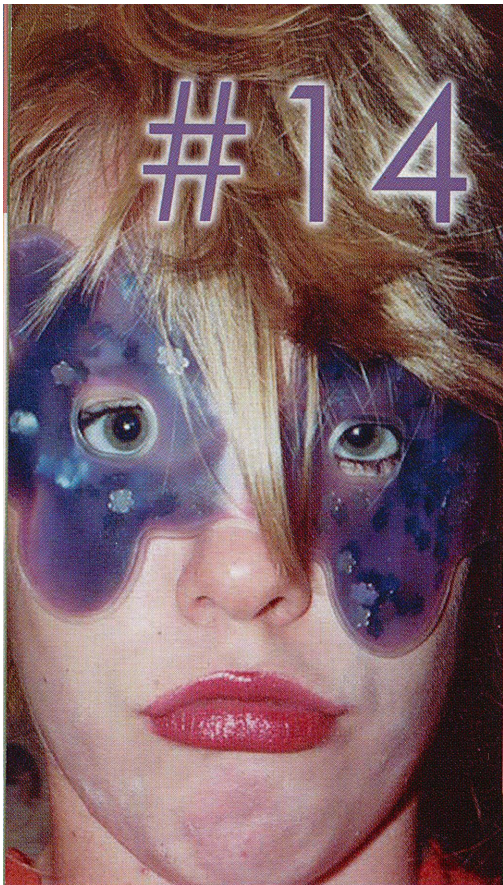

One of the annual events at Kiski, the blood drive, took place in November. Mr. Pugliese and the Student Council collected a total of 87 units of blood and donated them to local blood banks. Student helpers assisted with the collection, which took place in the gymnasium. Sophomore Meagan Mszyco said, "I saw quite a lot being dealt with."

Students also contributed to the redevelopment of areas devastated by Hurricane Katrina. Ms. Ellen Rupert recruited members of chorus to collect money for relief efforts. "We all needed to give up a little to help Americans in a situation that was truly dire," she said. The chorus members raised a total of $4925.73 in just one day. Students, teachers, and other staff members showed extreme enthusiasm about providing for fellow Americans.

With the school year at its end, Kiski students and staff must look forward to the next. There may come another disaster like Hurricane Katrina in which we contribute, or perhaps an always-present cause such as the blood drive. In either case, though, Kiski will once again display its care. Such sentiments echoed throughout this year and will continue to do so for years to come.

Nick Milisits holds a bandage on his arm after giving blood during the annual blood drive. When asked why he gave blood Nick said, "I felt like I was really making a difference." Outside of school Nick lived in Vandergrift with his brother, sister and dog named Chance.

Most Unique Femme Publishes Magazine

"My zine is basically about politics, activism, and underground music," said Dallas McCluske of her independent publication, Tales From the Circle Pit. Her opinion-based magazine first began as a public, online journal. Due to the combined efforts of its contributors, Dallas's work then became purchasable through the mail or from select stores along the East Coast. McCluske had already published three issues by fall of 2005. Perhaps seniors voted Dallas the class's most unique female because of her extraordinary creativity. Dallas planned to continue working on this periodical for as long as she could.

Toy Finds Success Horsing Around

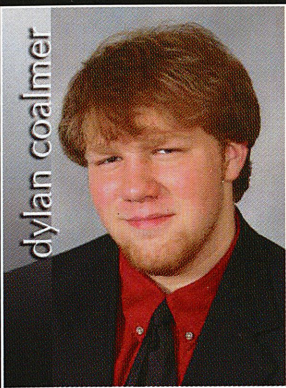

When Senior Chelsea Toy started riding horses at the age of four, no one would have guessed she would start to run rodeos by age 12. Riding barrel horses in professional rodeos brought Chelsea tremendous success. She competed in the All-American Quarter Horse Congress, placing in the top five in 2003 and 2004. She also became the Bull Ride Mania Finals Champion in the 2004 competition. Despite the rigors of the sport, Chelsea had plenty of amusing anecdotes about her time riding. "At a rodeo in Bullskin, Pennsylvania," said Chelsea, "a man was standing ten feet from the second barrel, and when I wasn't paying attention, my horse turned around the man instead." Though she had her share of successes and shortcomings in the sport, Chelsea planned to continue her competitive riding for years to come.

Feel the Excitement . . .

April Maritz and Jena Karafinski react enthusiastically as the homecoming game progresses. On what pumped her up for games, April said, "Josh Vick got me excited for every game!" Before each home match, students gathered at Jena's house for a recently instated Cavalier tradition, to Rally in the Alley.

Super Dave Kicks Back After School

For eight years, Senior David Bierer participated in an unusual and enormously rigorous extracurricular activity that always set him apart from the crowd. Several times per week, David traveled to Ted Cibik's Inner Strength Health and Wellness Center in Leechburg to learn, and often to teach, several martial arts styles. "I've been working with Mr. Cibik and the others at the school for a long time now," David said, "and I don't think anything else could be so worthwhile." In October 2004, he took part in a grueling two-day test of his physical and intellectual endurance to become a black belt. David also captained the school's demonstration team, which came to Kiski in the spring of 2005, and worked Friday evenings cleaning the school. Dave planned to continue training after graduation and hoped it would always serve as a part of his life.

Roman Leaves Competitors in His Dust

While other students busily visited colleges and applied to schools, Steve Roman had other reasons to count down the days until graduation. Once out of school he could find himself a contract and endorsements. Following in his father's footsteps, Steve raced motocross at the professional level and he intended to pursue it as a career. Racing involved much more than sitting on a bike and driving around, however. Strenuous training such as weightlifting and running became daily rituals. Competing for the past four years, Steve finished 24th out of 100 participants in a tournament that had racers from all over the world. In fact, in the summer of 2005, Steve traveled across the United States and Canada, leaving most of his competition in visors full of dust.

Oh Say Can You Sing . . .

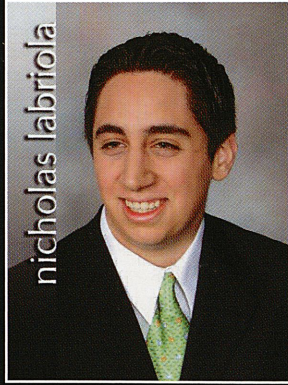

Accompanied by the marching band, Rachael Braun sings the national anthem at the homecoming game against McKeesport. "Singing at the game was a thrilling really experience," said Rachael. Following her performance, Matt Klingensmith sang the Alma Mater for the fans.

Acting and Singing and Baking - Oh Moio!

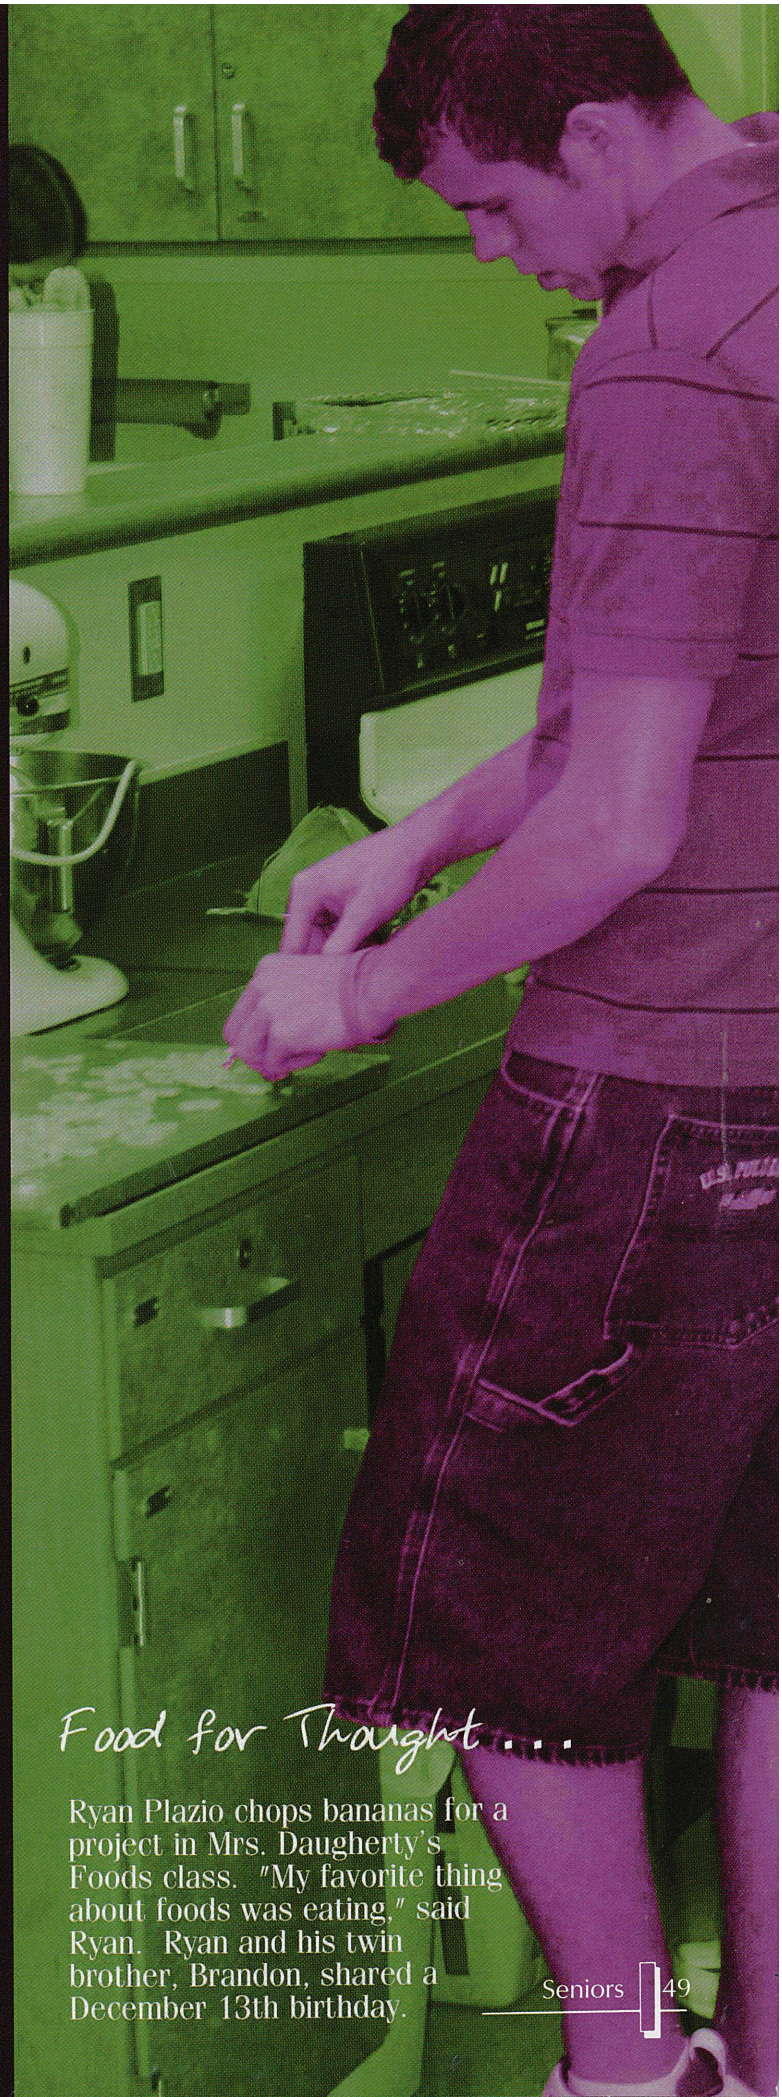

Born into a family that owned a pastry shop, senior Max Moio concocted confections for as long as he could recall. Max later folded acting and singing into the mix. Even though he reluctantly tried out for an Intermediate School production, Max truly enjoyed the experience. When asked what production at Kiski he enjoyed the most, Max said, "Butterfingers Angel, because a lot of my friends were in it and we had a really good time." Max planned to study business, take over the pastry shop, and continue to act and sing as a side hobby.

Super Senior Hits Bull's-Eye

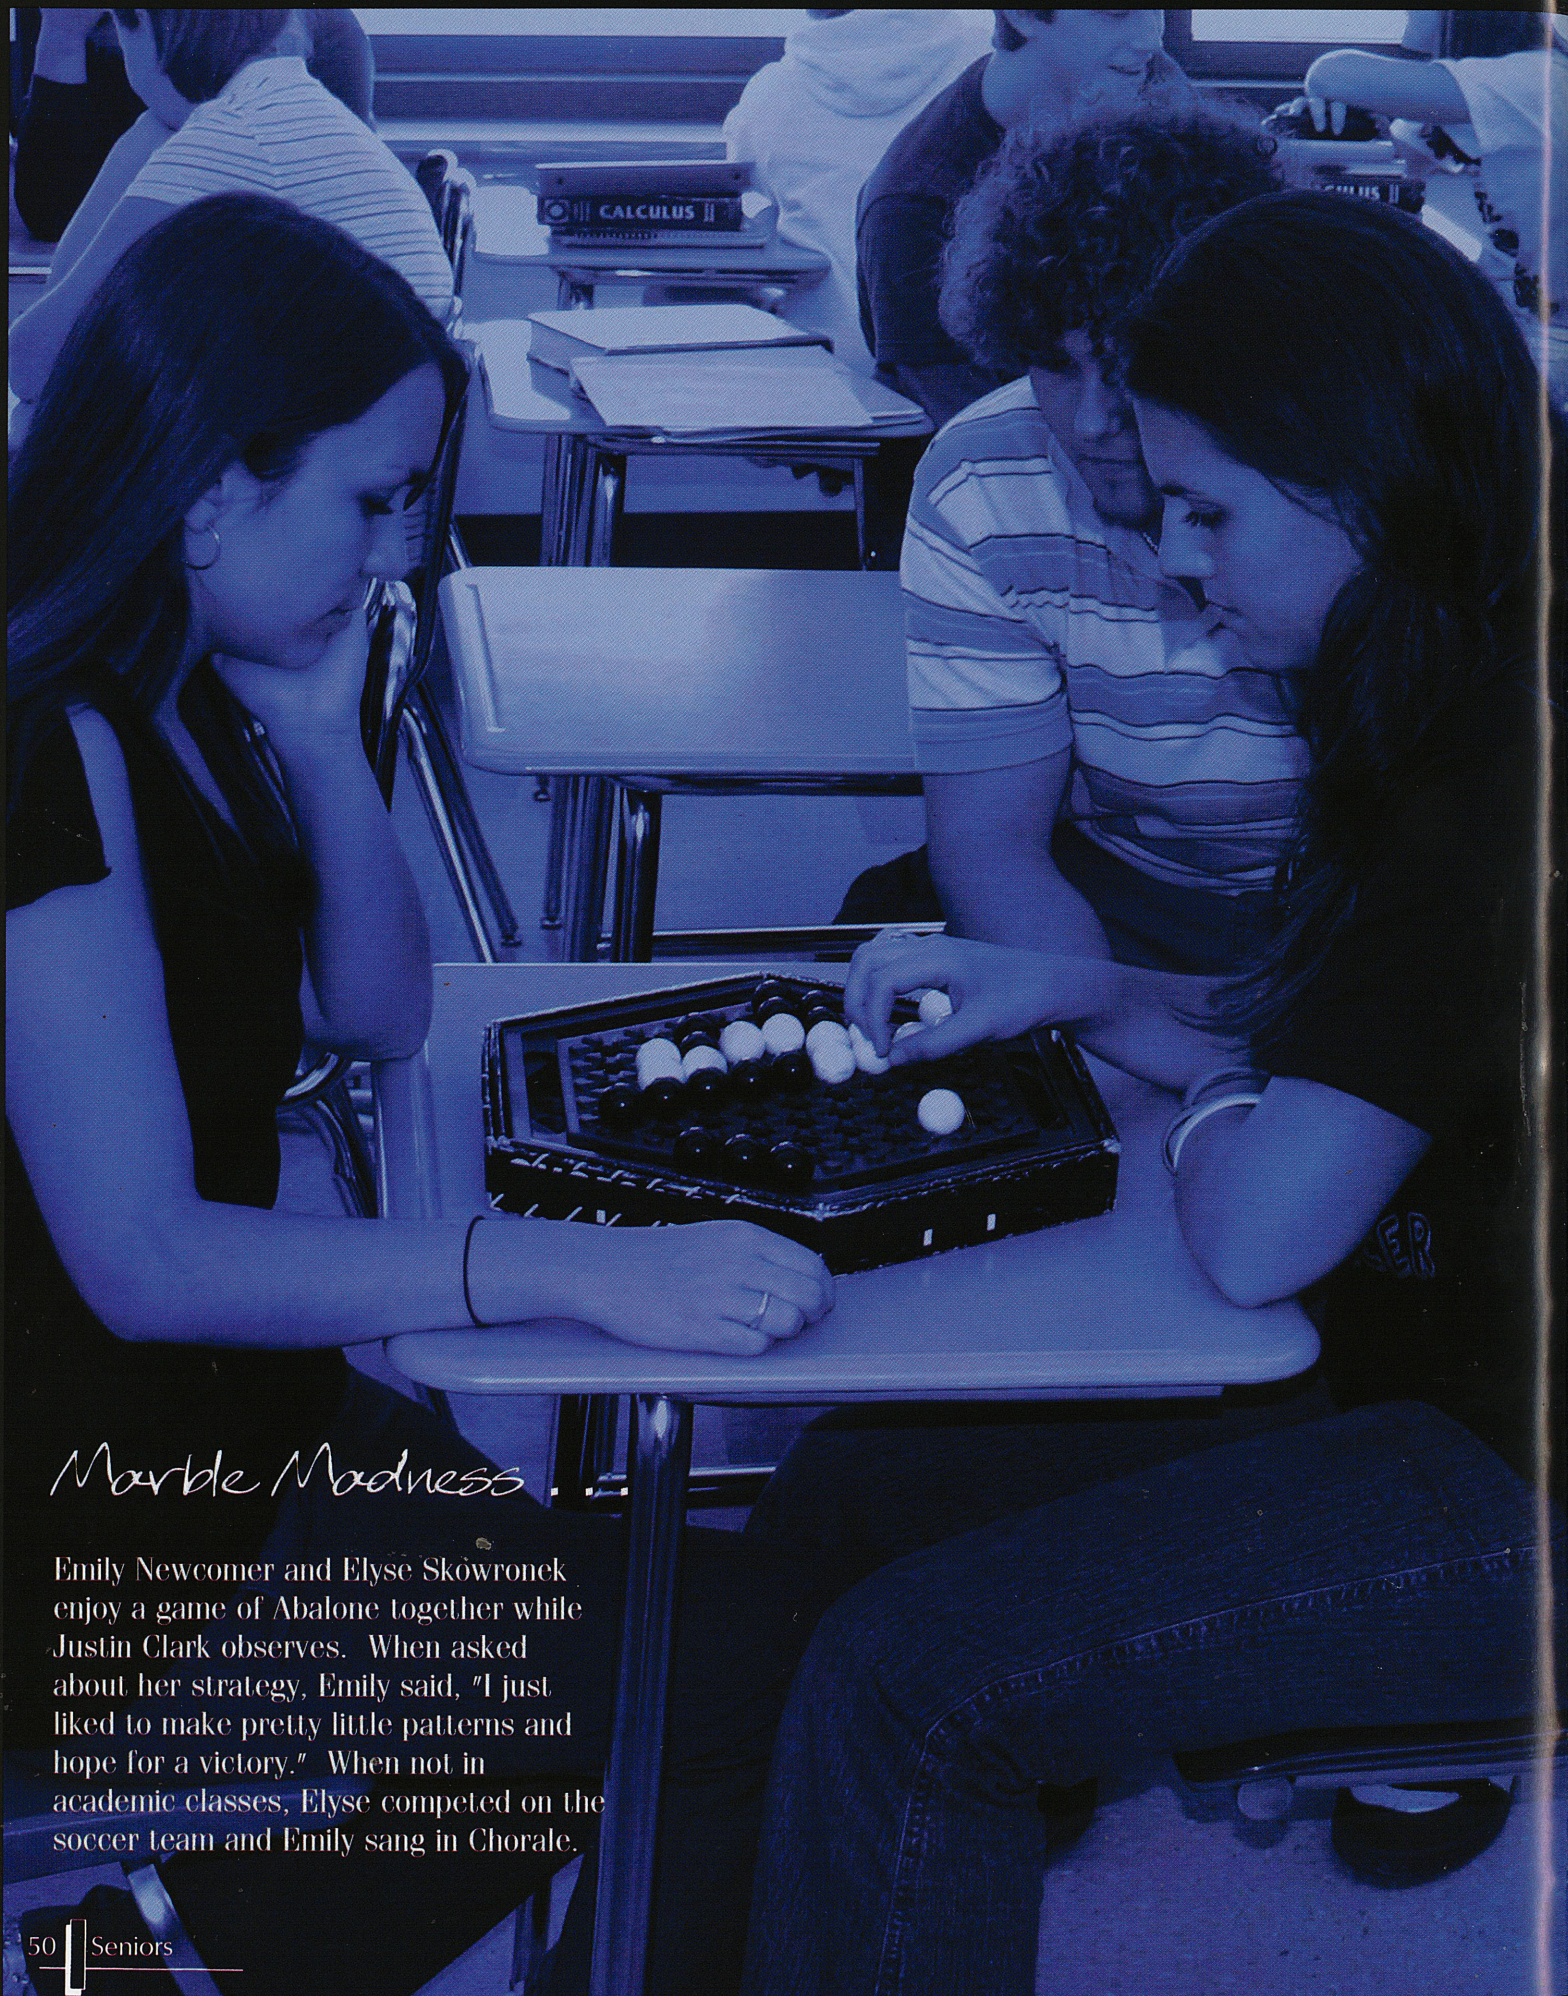

More than just a mild-mannered Key Club President, Senior Ashley Zalewski arched competitively all through high school. Introduced to archery by hunting deer with her father in a wooded area near Freeport, she soon began shooting competitively at Chieftain Country Club in Lower Burrell. Competition in the winter of her junior year placed Ashley at third place on the east coast and fifteenth nationally. The most embarrassing shot Ashley ever performed involved a metal plate under the target, a humiliating moment struggling with a difficult arrow, and a back-tension release with a tendency to fly unpredictably. Her most memorable shot cut cleanly through her competitor's arrow in an aptly named Robin Hood. Ashley planned to continue arching for as long as possible, letting her example serve as a warning to future troublesome Key Club members.

When asked about her strategy, Emily said, "I just liked to make pretty little patterns and hope for a victory." When not in academic classes, Elyse competed on the soccer team and Emily sang in Choral.

Talented Senior Conquers Stage

Even from the earliest days of her childhood, Rachael Braun spent endless hours in the dance studio making her dreams into a reality. She normally practiced four days a week and rehearsed six days a week during show productions. Rachael participated in innumerable shows, from her first minor role in Annie to her lead in Forty Seconds Straight. Rachael's passion for music, dance and theater inspired her to pursue a career in the Performing Arts. "I couldn't see myself making a career out of anything else," said Rachael. One could only imagine what the future held for this star-studded performer.

Won't Find Fault with Falk

Kenny G, David Sanborn, and Boney James all had three things in common: renowned status in the contemporary jazz world, multi-platinum careers, and soul-soothing saxophone styles. Senior Tony Falk may soon deserve mentioning in that group of astonishing saxophonists. Tony performed with his stupendous instrument for nine years, inspired by the abilities of his talented father and sister. Above all others, Tony admired two mentors who kept him on top of his game. "I personally admired Alex Costanza and Greg Lute," Tony said, "because they taught me how to play since the fifth grade." Throughout high school, Tony performed in numerous honors bands. Look for Tony, Kiski's Best Male Instrumentalist, and his work in record stores sometime in the future.

Murder, He Notes

STORY BY ALEX NIGRA

Unbeknownst to most students, Mr. Nicholas, the mild mannered principal of Kiski Area High School, had other experience enforcing rules prior to his work at Kiski. For two years, Mr. Nicholas served his country as a military policeman. When asked what military police do, Mr. Nicholas said, "They do the same job as regular police. They enforce the laws on military installations." The most grisly aspect of Mr. N's job as a military policeman dealt with murder investigations. As when sent to the high school office, during a court case as a military policeman, one needed to have one's facts and story straight. Pertaining to the murder investigations, Mr.

Nicholas said, "You have to make sure you have your facts, because if you don't in the courtroom, the opposing lawyer will destroy you."

Mr. Nicholas then used the skills that he acquired during his military police service on a new front, the high school. While the job as high school principal presented a less intense environment, its importance equaled or exceeded that of his previous occupation. He said that the enforcement of laws as a MP showed many similarities to the enforcement of school rules. Mr. Nicholas provided his guidance to students and ran the school adroitly. Everyone appreciated Mr. Nicholas's service in both of his extremely important jobs.

Fiesta Frenzy...

Dr. Hilwig and Dr. Milke converse about the Spanish Fiesta held in the atrium.

About the event, Spanish teacher Mrs.

George said, "It allowed Kiski students to experience a multi-cultural event." On the fall afternoon, students and faculty alike enjoyed the Spanish music and dances.

"Education is like a good cannoli...the perfect mixture of administration, teachers, parents, and students."

Mr. Gonnella

"As an honor student, the conversions from percentage to GPA seem to hurt more than help."

Sarah Kramer

Cut Above the Rest...

ay Johnson, Jim Summerville, Dr. Meighan, and Mr. Nicholas stand ready to release the school to the public. When asked about the renovations, Mr. Nicholas said, "It certainly was a lot of work for a lot of people, but we now have one of the best facilities in the state." The administration held the formal dedication just before the start of school year.

Problem Solvers...
Mr. Nicholas and Mr. Antenucci discuss a problem concerning scheduling. On the subject, Mr. Nick said, "The hardest part of scheduling was trying to meet individual needs. Sometimes the software simply did not allow a request." After 33 years working for the Kiski School District, Mr. Nicholas planned to retire to his home in Allegheny Township.

Thoughts on the new grading scale?

"I thought it was okay for some and really unfair for others."
Mary Mangus

Volunteers Ease Secretaries' Stress

STORY BY PATRICK KESSLER

The Kiski Area Office Secretaries, easily the most overlooked and under-appreciated members of the school staff, busied their way through yet another year of copying handouts, drafting memos, recording absences, phoning reminders, and generally making sure that the community's information never ceased to flow. Though generally the secretaries' efforts met with either indifference or rushed teachers' complaints about copier malfunctions, one fairly large group of students proved willing to help out and experience the stress of the job firsthand.

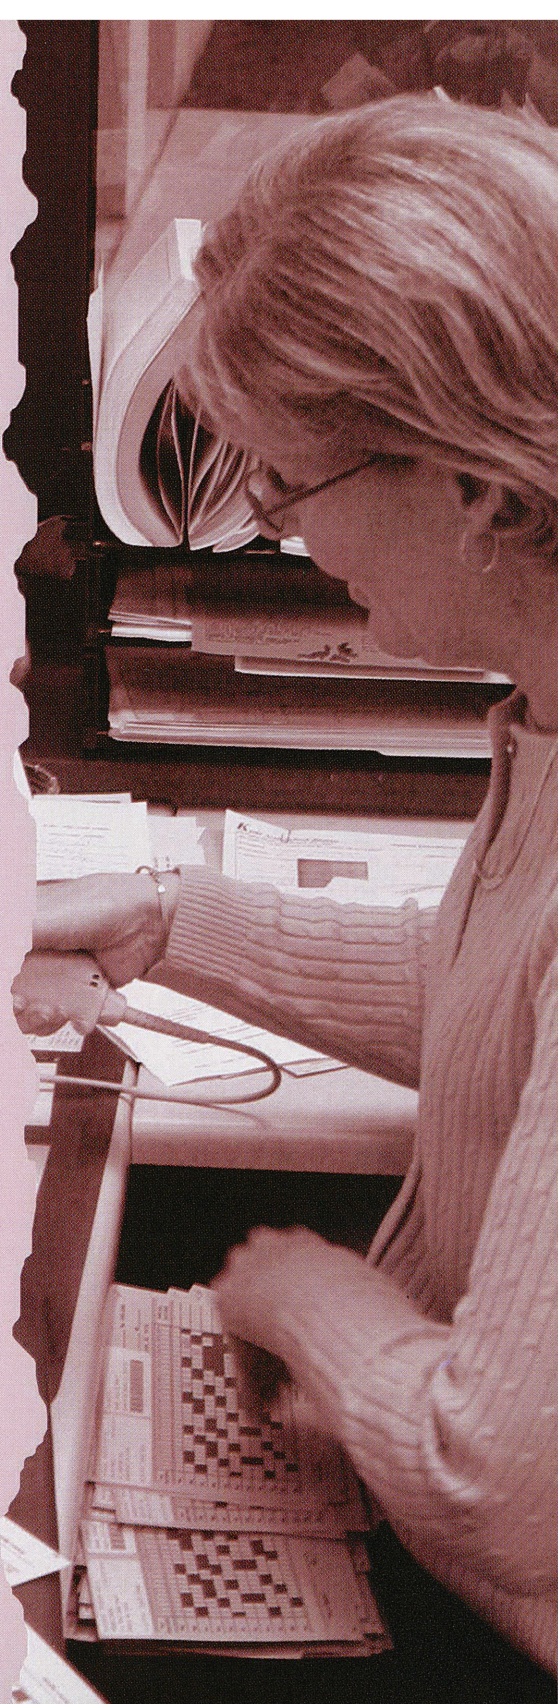

The volunteer Office Aides, four or five on duty every period of the day, tirelessly traversed the halls of the school to deliver passes, notes, memos, and early dismissal slips, sorted correspondences into teachers' mailboxes, and performed whatever odd jobs the secretaries needed at the time. Many students volunteered time and energy during their study halls to speed communications. The volunteers did not work incessantly, though; plenty of opportunities for gossip arose.

One volunteer, wishing to remain nameless, cited an incident involving an equally anonymous student's parent asking her to deliver a forgotten diarrhea medication as the funniest experience of the year. "The best part of volunteering at the office was being respected and trusted by administrators," said senior Krista Kardos. The efforts and exploits of these secretaries and their volunteer assistants certainly deserved some recognition.

Great Guidance...

Ms. Mag and Mrs. Guthrie work together on a student transcript. When asked about her internship in guidance, Mrs. Guthrie said, "Everyone was so helpful and kind during my time in the high school." Outside of school, she also liked singing and landscaping.

"The school secretaries were the most important link between the students and administration. They ran the school."

STORY BY SARAH KRAMER

From writing exercises called “flanellllamas” to other strangely titled compositions, ingenuity remained evident in the students of the Creative Writing classes as they worked to complete a compilation of poetry, short stories, and artwork. Otherwise known as the “Lit Mag,” the Literary Magazine, compiled by students enrolled in the course, showcased the various literary and artistic talents of Kiski Area High School students.

“It’s really an experience seeing what talent is hidden in some students. I enjoy being able to offer something to students that I’m so passionate about,” said Literary Magazine supervisor and Creative Writing teacher Ms. Columbus. However, just as enthusiastically as the class proved to uncover hidden talent, class time always possessed its quirks and eccentricities. “When reading a poem about a ‘hook in an eye,’ she began to tell us about her days of working at Stanford’s. Once again completely off topic!” said senior Tim Schaffer.

Ms. Columbus provided confirmation of her own interesting Creative Writing class experiences. “I trip and run into things all the time and I frequently share my own writing which is always a little mortifying,” she said. Despite the obscure stories and unique incidents, her students accomplished their goals and acquired memories that will forever linger in their minds.

Head of the Class...

Nick Grzybek and Katie Walker display a picture of a character from Of Mice and Men. When asked about the book Nick said, “I enjoyed it very much.” In his spare time Nick hunted, fished, and wrestled.

Inside Look at Ungung Aeros

STORY BY ASHLEY URIK

Most likely every 2006 Kiski student heard of the Jazz Rock Ensemble. Members became hard to miss around the holidays, singing Christmas carols and delivering singing Valentines. However, the group did much more than sing simple holiday songs.

Every day during eighth period, Jazz Rock met to practice a variety of challenging songs. "The most difficult song was 'Under My Skin' by Frank Sinatra because it had really difficult jazz rhythms," said Krista Badac. The group's continual resolve allowed them to master all of their songs, making them one of the best performance groups in the school.

Though the group took its work immensely seriously, most every member had amusing stories to tell about his or her experiences in Jazz Rock. "One of the most embarrassing things to happen was when you were singing really loudly, but everyone else already stopped," said Maria Previni.

This year the ensemble also had an interesting experience with an unusual food. "We sang a song called 'Shoo Fly Pie,' so Mrs. Rupert wanted us to try it. It was gross," said Maria. In spite of some zany times, the Jazz Rock once again had a successful year.

Shoulders Front...

Jen Morgan, Jim Wright, Chase Pityk, and Shawn McCoy march forward during Bohemian Rhapsody. "In my opinion, this year's show was the most difficult of my four years in band," said Jim. He planned to one day play in a major symphony or orchestra.

Mr. Tedorski: A known Technogenius

STORY BY COURTNEY GRAFTON

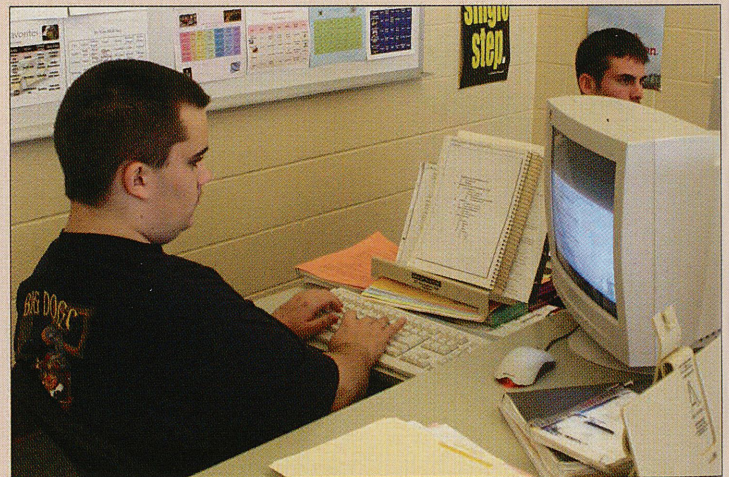

According to Mr. Tedorski, newly appointed Director of Technology Services and Instruction, typical days did not exist in his department. "It was something new every day. Nothing ever stayed the same," said Mr. Tedorski regarding his favorite aspect of the job. He accepted his high-ranking position at a September school board meeting and thus became a member of the Administration. He and his team of 21 students alone carried the responsibility for just about everything in the school that had a plug. The team traveled from room to room ensuring that teachers and students had everything they needed to enjoy a thorough and even exciting educational experience. Even a computer savvy expert as Mr. Tedorski had some quite embarrassing technical difficulties in the past.

His laptop once crashed in the middle of giving a presentation to the school board about technology education in schools. "I knew exactly how Bill Gates felt when his laptop crashed", said Mr. Tedorski, referring to a similar humiliating event experienced by the master of technology himself during an important presentation. It happens to the best of them. The technology services team saw every day as a new, exciting, chaotic adventure.

Mike Moorhead types away in his computer class. When asked about his thoughts on school, Mike replied, "Wow! School was boring." Outside of school, Mike resided in Apollo with his snake, Mr. Squeeze and lizard, Homer.

Mr. Sprenger

"Well, my partner was Steve Jones. What else could be said?"

Tyler Slimick

Breanna Coward jestingly shows her answer to a question in Mr. Lemmon's Biology class. "I kicked butt at our Jeopardy review game," she said. Breanna chose Mr. Jewart as her favorite teacher at the high school.

Seanchuring History

STORY BY DAN AIELLO

In 2005, a temporary new addition graced the Social Studies Department at Kiski. Ms. Tawsha Seanchur, a Clarion University student who graduated from Plum High School, spent six weeks as a student teacher under the multitasking Mr. Lohr, who enjoyed the experience immensely because he did not have to work nearly as much. "I always threatened her grade," he said, "I made her complete four bulletin boards instead of the usual two, and she had to wash my car for an A. B's in student teaching are the kiss of death."

Despite Mr. Lohr's unique brand of encouragement, Ms. Seanchur enjoyed her time at Kiski. "I really lucked out on this assignment," she said, "There were three schools in the area I could've gone to, and Kiski had by far the best reputation." According to her, the greatest differences between Kiski Area and Plum are the smaller class sizes and more strictly secure policies at Kiski. When she has her degree, she plans to teach history at a high school in the area. Surprisingly, the most ridiculous question she'd ever been asked did not come from a student, she said, but rather, "Just after going through customs in Canada, when somebody actually asked me if we were on the Canadian side or the U. S. side."

Blow Away...

Jay Jefferson cleans off his shop table at the end of manufacturing class. When inquired about his thoughts on the class, Jay said, "I really enjoyed manufacturing. The CVC Mill project was difficult, yet fun." Jay competed as a wrestler and served both SADD and Gamers club.

Tea for Two or Dozens

STORY BY PATRICK KESSLER

On Tuesday December 20th, 2005 fell the thirty-fifth annual Kiski Foods Classes' Christmas Tea sponsored by Mrs. Daugherty. The tradition preceded her sponsorship by several years but remained relatively unknown among the student body, which Mrs. Daugherty proclaimed a pity. "It was a nice way to get ready for the holidays," she said, "Students enjoyed coming in during their study halls and free periods." Interestingly enough, the celebrations in 2004 and 2005 also helped to test the newly constructed main building; they took place in room 137, which had never been so crowded before.

This year, Foods II students

Aarika Fouse, Crystal Hartman, Ashley Moran, and Kelsey Kovalcik monitored the festivities, supervising their classmates' decorating and baking.

Hors d'oeuvres served included bacon tater bites, pizza snacks, barbeque meatballs and cocktail wiener crescents, all with coffee, tea, punch and cookies. Foods class students, administrators, secretaries, custodians, support staff, and teachers alike attended the event. "I've attended every one of them as long as I've taught here," said Mr. Fantaski. Mrs. Daugherty added, "Mr. F. was one of my best kids. He's a real cook!" The Christmas Tea remained as ever a beloved tradition at Kiski High.

Surfin' Safari...

Jeremy Zvonkovich researches his senior paper in the library during Ms. Cramer's English class. "Ms. Cramer's English class was the most fun I have ever had while learning," said Jeremy. He successfully competed on the varsity hockey and baseball teams.

"It's nice to get back to teaching after my maternity leave."

Mrs. Kubinec

"Dodgeball was the best game ever and Mrs. Kubinec was the best teacher ever."

Kim Klingensmith

By the Hair of His Chinny Chin Chin...

Joey Scheller races for the ball while playing floor hockey in gym class. Reflecting on good times, Joey said, "Last year, Chris Dunlay fell on my head and jammed my chin into the floor." As a result, Joe had to get seven stitches on his chin.

Pillow Talk...

Mrs. Corna helps Corinna Hackman to cut fabric from a pattern to create a pillow in Clothing I class. When asked about what she likes to do out of class, Corinna said, "I liked to play basketball." Corinna had one sister and one brother and lived in Avonmore with two dogs and two cats.

Best gym class activity?

"Mushroom Kickball with Mrs. Rossi was clearly the most superior part of gym."

Christa Klingensmith

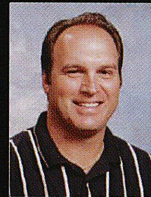

"Hockey was the best because I dominated everyone just like the Penguins did."

The "Force" of Kigki

STORY BY DAN AIELLO

The description "tree-chopping nature lover by night and Physics teacher by day" could fit only one man, Teacher of the Year Mr. Francis DeSantis. The educator in charge of Physics and A.P. Physics classes, he has received this prestigious award for the second time in his eight-year career. For those who never had the DeSantis experience, shame, shame, and further shame. Those who had taken his class knew the laid-back yet effective teaching atmosphere Mr. DeSantis created. The students loved him and he felt the same way. "I enjoyed working with the students on an individual basis," said Mr.

DeSantis. He prepared his students not just in academic realms, but all areas of life by his daily words of wisdom. Quotes such as "No thinking," and "(Isaac) Newton never laughed," supplied his students with the humor necessary to get through long days.

Amazingly enough, Mr. DeSantis's career as a Physics wizard began eleven years after his first job as an electrical engineer. Faculty and students alike appreciated Mr. DeSantis not only for changing his occupation completely, but for the benefit each student gained from his tutelage.

Personal Attention...

Mrs. Bedortha lends a helping hand to Nate Rigatti with his studies. "The extra help really helped me to do better in school," said Nathan. Nate lived in Allegheny Township and had two brothers and three sisters.

"Francis once said, 'It's not a real physics problem unless it's submerged in oil'."

Life Skills Classes Buddy Up

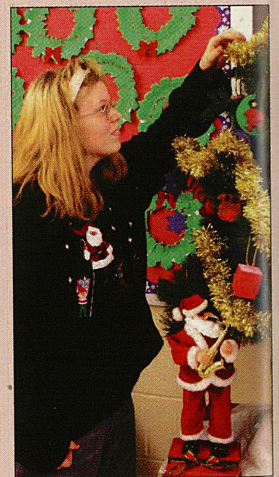

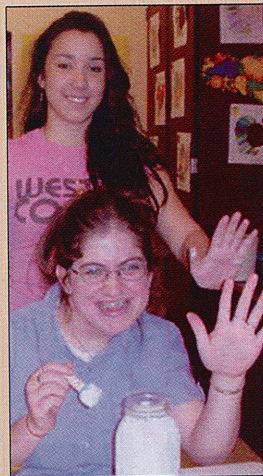

STORY BY DAN AIELLO

The Life Skills classes served as a unique opportunity not only for the students, but also for student helpers known as "buddies." These young men and women donated their study hall periods to work with the students by participating in many invaluable activities.

Under the direction of Ms. Mary Leezer and Ms. Diane Donati, each student accomplished many tasks daily, with a typical day consisting of mathematics, reading, writing, spelling, arts and crafts, cooking, and cleaning. Room 405 became awfully festive each holiday season as the students would deck out the classroom with their own drawings and other creations. They showed off their generous sides by creating snowmen lights and selling them during telethon week, with all of the proceeds going toward the week-long production. The students also enjoyed playing many games, as found evident during their gym classes, with basketball and dodgeball claiming the class's favorite sports. "It was so much fun to work with them every day, and to see how each student progressed was incredible," said senior Lauren Roberts.

The students and "buddies" worked together over the year to strengthen and gain experience in many academic fields, but just as important, bonded together to build friendships that will last a lifetime.

"Being a Life Skills teacher was the most rewarding experience."
Ms. Leezer

Sticky Fingers...

Buddy Aly Patino and Alicia work together to adorn items to sell for the December telethon.

Double the Fun...

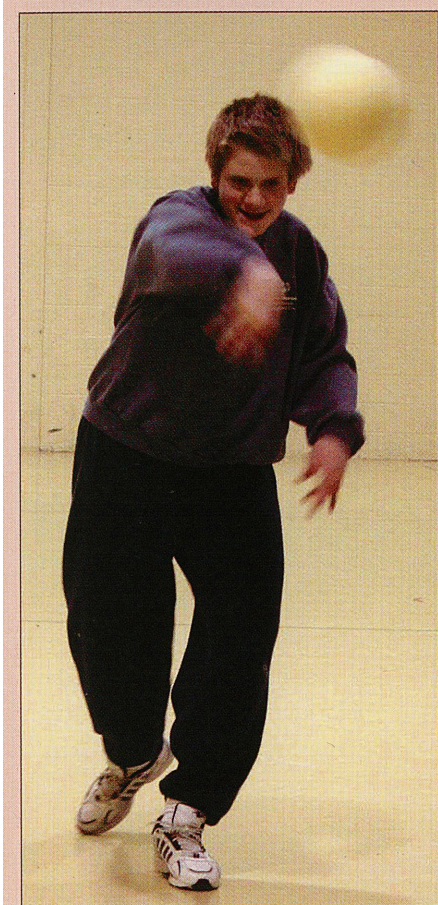

Twins Ashley and Amanda proudly show off some of their fine accomplishments.

Garland Girl...

Time to Celebrate...

The whole gang gathers around Beth to celebrate her 16th birthday on December 2nd. Some presents that she received included a stuffed animal, a cosmetic bag, and a photo album. The students always enjoyed time spent eating cake together.

Erika does her very best to decorate ornaments to help raise money for the telethon. She has become an excellent painter.

New Program Jump-starts Mornings

STORY BY STEVE KESLAR

The atrium in 2005 generally proved a calm, quiet area, no longer filled with the hustle and bustle of bake sales or the eager crowd of students buying donuts. Instead the hungry masses migrated to the lower cafeteria to indulge in the new breakfast program.

At last Kiski found a way to promote the long preached "most important meal of the day." From 7:20 - 7:40 students could buy cereal, pop-tarts, bagels, mini-pancakes, donuts, breakfast pockets, and Tony's Breakfast Pizza. The first day that breakfast appeared in the cafeteria only about 40 brave students dared to discover the excellence of the program. Senior Bill Gallagher proudly declared that he never missed a single day since it started. "Not only was it a well-balanced breakfast, it was also an excellent social scene," said Bill. When asked about the success of the newly instituted program, District Food Director Mrs. Bailey said, "Hopefully we can get to 200 students. It's slowly getting there, and besides, Rome wasn't built in a day. We have been trying to work out all the kinks such as having enough time to eat. Overall it's turning out well."

Priced at only one dollar, the minimal financial damage done proved one of the best parts of the breakfast program. The program demonstrated tremendous success as its popularity mounted.

Morning Fuel...

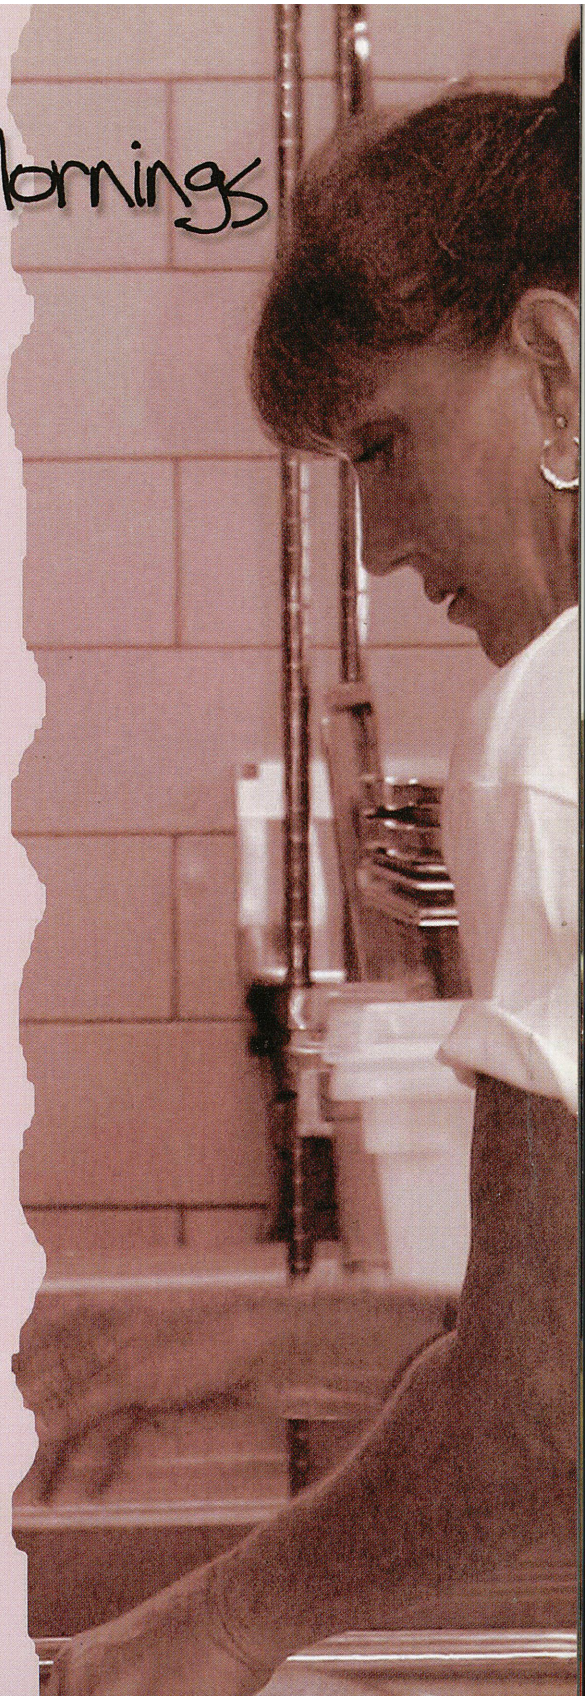

Tony Clark pays for his meal at the newly installed breakfast program. "Breakfast was good," said Tony. He also wrestled for the high school varsity team coached by his favorite teacher, Mr. Tursky.

"I loved it. I thought we should have had cereal every day. I hoped the program would last forever."

Kiski Players Hog the Field

Story by Dan Aiello

The Kiski Area Cavaliers 2005 football season had a different look from years past. After spending years on the sidelines of Davis Field, former head coach and history aficionado Dave Grimm retired after four consecutive playoff seasons. Longtime assistant Mr. Chris Heater took over the duty in hopes of a fifth straight post-season birth. Although the team fell one game short of that goal, school spirit soared at every game, home or away.

For the first time this century, an official mascot paraded the sidelines at each game.

Between the football boosters and head cheer-leading coach Mrs. Jennifer McAfee, motorcycles shrouded the muddy terrain of Davis Field in smog. "At first, they were only to appear at the first home game, but they became so popular, so they came back for the remaining home games," said Mrs. McAfee. Face painting at home games and the newly introduced "Spirit Week" spurred the blue and gold pride. With school spirit soaring and the increased experience of the Coach Heater regime, this season of changes seemed to foretell years of Cavalier domination.

Players Take Advantage of Opponents

Story by Ashley Urik

The Boys Varsity Tennis Team received not only new coach, Dr. Millie Pipman, but also a new lease on life, at least in terms of the sport. Dr. Pipman and her team met the challenges head on, improving from the previous year after every match. The grueling practices every day after school most likely contributed to the team's success. However, winning did not draw Dr. Pipman to coaching. "The best part of coaching was working outside the classroom with students and seeing improvement in my players from the beginning to the very end of a season," said Dr. Pipman.

The Girls Varsity Tennis Team also performed well in spite of tough match-ups. Playing teams such as Greater Latrobe, which had the first ranked player in Pennsylvania, proved no easy feat, but the girls took the opportunity to learn from their opponents. The girls' many trying matches also resulted in some interesting moments. "Once one girl on our team hit her partner in the head with the ball and the other team cheered," said senior Ashley Zalewski.

Athletes Run the Long and Winding Road to Victory

Story by Alex Nigra

Gurgling brooks, crunching leaves, and singing birds became familiar sounds to members of the cross-country team. The team not only got into the best shape of their lives by running, but members also enjoyed strolling on the many scenic trails. However, the cross country season certainly involved much more than experiencing nature.

The team's training regimen started in late June and ended in early November. This training involved many workouts that pushed the runners to their physical and mental limits. The boys team faced difficulties after losing three of their top runners from the previous year. Junior Steve Mszyco stepped up as a team leader and led the young boys team to a successful 5-3 season nonetheless. The girls team also finished another great season with a record of 6-3. Most runners agreed that the zenith of the season occurred at the Grove City Invitational, where the boys and girls teams finished second and third, respectively. Both teams rose above the expectations that they set for themselves before and during the season.

Boys Break Long-standing Record by One

Story by Steve Keslar

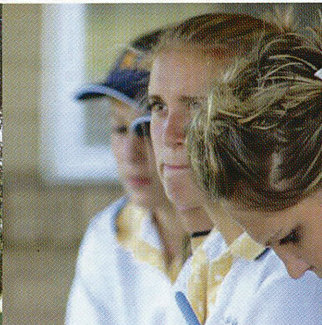

The Kiski Area Boys Golf team played amazingly throughout the season. The group that set the all-time course record at Vandergrift Golf Course, Kiski's home course, consisted of Matt "Rat" Shirley, Adam Wood, Dave "Snake" Jancaro, Luke "Z" Gross, and Cory Smith. They totaled a combined score of 177, breaking the old record by one. Besides this feat, the boys golf team remained consistent, finishing third in their section for the fifth season in a row behind Fox

Chapel and Franklin Regional.

Comprised of 15 members, the team finished the year with a record of 14-5. Senior Matt Shirley summed up the season for his buddies when he said, "Although we nearly missed the playoffs this season, all in all it was a good year. We were a tight knit group that will always be together and the course record is something none of us will forget."

Team Serves Up Special Season

Story by Patrick Kessler

Though their record showed only slight improvement over last year's, the members of the Kiski Area volleyball team, coached by elementary gym teacher Mr. Eugene Dellamonache and assistants Natalie Plescia and Sarah Windmer, fared well in several matches and enjoyed themselves immensely. Coach Dellamonache's experiences as a nurse and football player affected practices, as he made sure the team stayed well stretched and thoroughly exercised. "It was fun, but hard. It was just like football practice," said senior Krista Kardos. Their difficult practices paid off and they placed second at both the Apollo and Hempfield tournaments.

The team became very close and got to know each other well off the field. "Once before a game, Brynn dropped her cell phone in a used toilet," said Krista when asked about the funniest moment of the year, though she herself apparently became overexcited after successfully spiking the ball at the Hempfield tournament. The 2005 Volleyball season proved a superb experience in a variety of ways.

Girls Grab Greatest Goal in KA History

Story by Ashley Urik

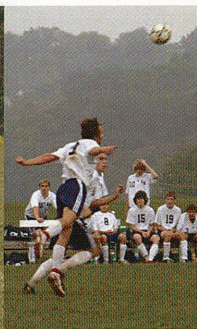

The Kiski Area Girls Soccer Team had an incredible year, coming in first in their section, which made them the first girls soccer team in the school's history to make the playoffs. Practicing every day since August under the direction of coaches Tim Sharek, Kevin Plowman, and Neil Terrill, the girls honed their skills to take on tough competition. However, the team did not change strategy to get into the playoffs. "We kept playing hard and with heart as usual," said senior Katy Barker. Their perseverance certainly paid off when they scored three goals in the last three minutes of the game against Oakland Catholic to win the section championship. "Making the playoffs made my senior year; nothing could top that," said Katy about her favorite soccer memory.

The Boys Varsity Soccer Team also had a relatively good year under the coaching of Bobby Wright. The team also made it to the playoffs but unfortunately lost to Plum, the eventual WPIAL champions.

Girls and New Mascot Score Big

Story by Sarah Cramer

As senior Dan Aiello could attest to firsthand, most underrated the difficulty of cheerleading. Literally "putting on his game face," Dan joined the ranks of the 2005-2006 squad in the honorable role of the Kiski Area Cavalier, the school mascot. "Dan was a fun mascot," said varsity head coach Mrs. Jennifer McAfee. "He worked hard and realized how hard it is to motivate the crowd at Kiski Area!"

The cheerleaders' encompassed much more than simply rooting for the home team. Under the leadership of captains Jenny Laero and Brittany Herbeck, the competitive portion marked an astonishing accomplishment in Kiski Area cheerleading history as the squad, for the first time ever, went on to compete in nationals. The girls performed very well at the national level, their success unhampered by the ability of their new opponents as they scored within the top five at every competition.

Young Team Shows Much Promise

Story by Alex Nigra

All three Kiski Area boys basketball teams faced tough challenges and stepped up admirably during their seasons. They all worked tirelessly to achieve a brilliant level of conditioning and to hone their skills. The boys ninth grade basketball team, in particular, excelled to a very high level of performance.

When asked how he felt about the season, Zach Start said, "The season was very successful. We finished 17-2, but we were very competitive in both losses." The ninth grade team's motto could be expressed in a single word, "Kentucky," which they adopted from their coach, Mr. Kallock, who said that the coach from Kentucky would never ask them to play for him, when the athletes messed around in practice. The athletes on the team showed an abundance of unity, which led them to compete with the best teams that they played. Most of the team members recalled many fond memories of the season. When asked about his best memory from the season, Start said, "Brady getting a breakaway in one tournament and tomahawking it." The players hoped that the successes they found during that season would carry over into future ones.

Fearless Boys Crush the Ice

Story by Steve Keslar

After the poor performance last year by Kiski Area Hockey, something had to change in order for the organization to turn around. A drastic change occurred, and somehow the 2-19-2 varsity team from last year transformed into an unstoppable 10-0-0 force by early January. With their losing season well behind them, everything looked brighter for the cavaliers. What caused this radical transformation? No one can say for sure, but it most likely resulted from the league change the varsity team underwent. The team began playing in the open league, which they ruled with an iron fist. The varsity team did not stand alone in the improvement though.

The Kiski Area JV hockey team also stepped up their game. Going from last year's winless season to 5-2-0 by Christmas break, they looked to follow the footsteps of their varsity counterpart. As senior assistant-captain Zac Talmadge brilliantly said, "KA hockey was always going full throttle."

Masters of the Mat Continue Dominance

Story by Dan Aiello

The 2005-2006 Kiski Area Cavalier wrestling squad started off strong in pursuit of another section title. Beginning the season with four straight section wins and eleven consecutive victories surely kept the Cavs at elite status throughout WPIAL wrestling. Unfortunately, the biggest match of the year, a December 15 bout against top rival Connellsville, never occurred due to weather. After losing a tough match to them on the road the year prior, many of the returning wrestlers grew anxious into evening the score.

Many members, including sophomore Jeff Kracj said, "We had spent so much time into preparing for that match, but of course, the weather had to interfere."

Nevertheless, Cavalier wrestling enjoyed another successful year under 300-win head coach Chuck Tursky. From 103 pounds to the heavyweight division, each wrestler felt a strong sense of accomplishment carrying on the winning tradition

Swimmers Dive Confidently into H2-06

Story by Sarah Kramer

The slap of hands making contact with cool waters, the strong smell of chlorine, and the blurred vision caused by gazing through goggles became very familiar sensations for the Kiski Area Swimming and Diving teams. Every day on the pool deck evoked old sentiments for veteran members and new experiences and memories for all members, whether it entailed competing in a meet or just swimming laps for practice. "It was always a good feeling when I learned a new dive or did well in a meet," said Jena Gardone. "I enjoyed it so much that all moments were memorable."

Under the direction of head coach Ruggeri and the leadership of captains Matt Hartford, Jena Gardone, Kelsey Kovalcik, and Blair Woolheater, the team enjoyed a sensational season, including several individual feats. Jena Gardone made quite a splash, taking first place at the WCCA championships and qualifying for and placing tenth at the WPIAL competition. As many team members echoed this sentiment, senior Aarika Fouse precisely summarized the season in one word: "Amazing," she said.

Hard Work Pays Off for Hoop Girls

Story by Courtney Grafton

The Girls Basketball team grew close over the course of their season. The entire team even decorated the locker room for Christmas, complete with a tree, colorful lights, and stockings. Of course, the girls got down to strict business in the gym. They spent countless hours sweating and working on the court. "It was always a challenge and we learned many new things," said Lauren Butler about her first year playing on the team with the other girls.

When it came to basketball, these girls played hard and played to win. They suffered through many grueling practices to achieve their level of athleticism. Their tireless repetition and hours of practice showed on the court. "Practice was hard sometimes, but all the hard work paid off when we played the game," said Lauren. The team enjoyed a fantastic season.

When considering high school athletics, one had to acknowledge the efforts of the trainers. In addition to assisting head trainers Donna Rife and Lisa Anderson by filling water bottles and bagging ice, they learned how to relax muscles, treat sprains, and bandage cuts. They played a vital role in athletics, and the athletes certainly appreciated their efforts. "I thought that they were very important," said sophomore wrestler Jeff Krajci.

When asked about her favorite memory, freshman Kajsa Siewczak said, "Before a meet, we all went to Wendy's, and on the way back, we got into a fight with the Frostys." That reflection did not involve cleaning a wrestler's scraped knee or quenching a quarterback's thirst, but obviously training provided an excellent opportunity to hone social skills. After all, not many high school students willingly cleaned blood from a mere acquaintance, as the trainers did.

Considering their solid background in first aid, laborious work, and great social skills, the trainers certainly deserved as much praise as the athletes with whom they worked.

Discuss Your Opinion on Steroid Use in Baseball.

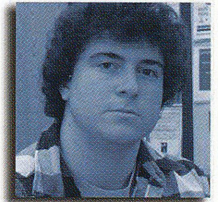

"I don't understand why somebody would do that to their body for fame."

Zach Riffer

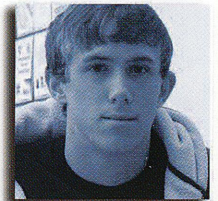

"Steroids can make you stronger and hit the ball further, but it can't improve hand-eye coordination."

Mark Henry

"Through practice and dedication, you should be able to achieve goals without an enhancing supplement."

New Coach Bats a Thousand

Story by Courtney Grafton

"He's psycho," said senior Dave Lang about his new baseball coach, Mr. Jankowski. Speculation about his sanity among his students and players aside, Mr. Jankowski proved himself a serious and reliable coach. His unique and effective coaching strategy helped the team achieve a successful season. He motivated his team by leading by example. He displayed a contagious eagerness and respectable devotion to the game, in order to motivate his team to strive for greatness. Following their coach's eccentricity and excitement, the boys soared to greater heights.

Coach J also believed in the use of positive rather than negative reinforcement. When Coach J found it necessary to employ negative reinforcement, the team realized his strong intentions and the players did their best to improve. Because of the mutual respect between the players and their coach, the young team played extremely well and made it to the playoffs. This respect and "the rewarding feeling you got when you helped people become better baseball players made it all worthwhile," said Mr. Jankowski.

Girls Swing into Stellar Season

Story by Patrick Kessler

Few spectator sports could compare with the sheer exhilaration a game of softball entailed. Many went through life unaware of the differences between softball and baseball; luckily, senior Kim Mulvany made herself available to elaborate on the dissemblance. "Apart from the difference in the size of the balls, baseball bats are heavy at the end and light in the middle, where ours are just even."

Coached by Mrs. Haney, the softball team enjoyed a terrific season that extended into the playoffs. When asked about the talent coming into the year, Mrs. Haney said, "We lost a few key players but I think we should be just as strong as last year, as long as we can avoid injuries." Certainly, the team had fun both on the field and at practice, taking its token phrase, "Jump on it!" from a popular song they stretched to. The efforts of the team resulted in a lively and valuable season for all.

Garner McCloud

For the Love of the Game

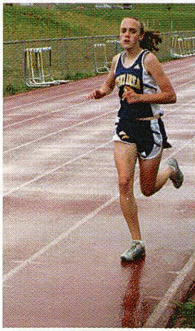

Story by Josh Barszewski

When skeptics thought of high school sports, they recalled images of sitting on a bench, practicing for hours on end without ever enjoying the excitement of a competition. However, Track and Field, especially at Kiski, showed itself as quite the opposite. "No one sat on the bench. Everyone who practiced had the opportunity to compete," said Mr. Lemmon, coach of the Boys Varsity Track Team. This presented the students with a fantastic period for athletic growth. "Success was measured by improving one's personal record rather than what place one took in an event," said Mr. Lemmon.

According to that philosophy, the members of the track and field teams achieved a high level of success. Garner McCloud qualified for the prestigious WPIAL finals, as well as the entire team attaining an impressive 7-2 record.

While other athletes spent quality time on benches, the stars of the track and field teams enjoyed the chance to run, to compete, and most importantly, to succeed.

OUT of the shadows

we are the champions of the world...

Lauren Kukieza proudly boasts her game face as the marching band takes Davis Field for a halftime presentation. On psyching herself up for each show, Lauren said, "I talked to people on my bus and I ate lots of sugar." Performing We Will Rock You, a tribute to the 70's super rock group Queen, the band sent their melodies "anywhere the wind blows."

Block Formation...

The regiment nails the final pose at the end of the opener. "Just before we hit the final set, we had to throw a quad. I hated that toss because that's where I broke my finger," said Head Guard Korinda Berry. Coincidentally, that set also sent other Head Guard Kaley Thoma to the hospital in an ambulance due to an ankle injury.

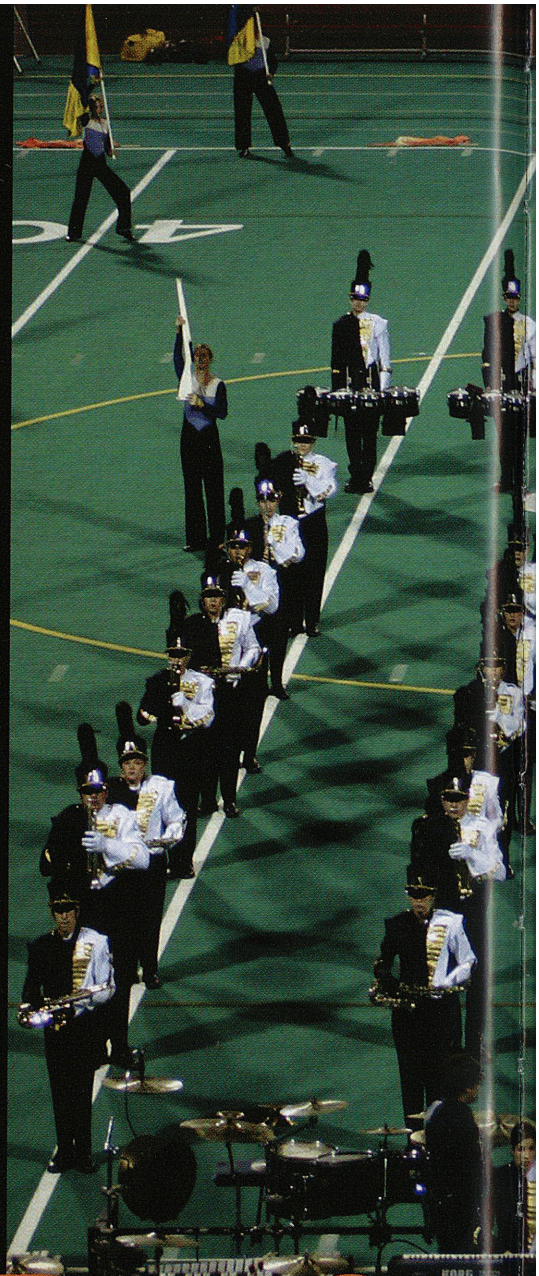

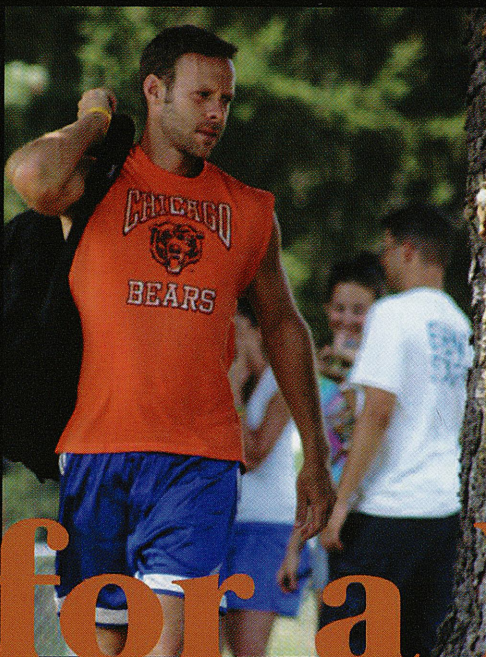

Tantalizing Trumpeter...

Nathan Insko pells out a high note during Bohemian Rhapsody. When asked about the transition from football player to marching band star, Nathan said, "They were two different atmospheres. Band took a lot more work and time." Throughout the season, Nathan led the trumpet section to a newfound confidence and ability.

Able Andy...

Staff member Andy Toth grabs his gear to head to the other side of the field just after teaching visuals for the opener. When asked about Andy's contributions guard member Jenna Fannin said, "He added lots of new and exciting aspects that helped the show come to life." Andy came from Chicago to better the show.

Queen for a Day?

...Not for a Devastated KA Marching Band

Story by Jenna Fannin

At 4:30 AM on October 8th, armed with their crowd-pleasing show, We Will Rock You, marching band members traveled to Towson University in Towson, Maryland in hopes of capturing their 11th US Regional Title. More importantly, the KA Band hoped to extend the nation's longest streak of undefeated US Regional Class titles, in any class, to 20 consecutive years in a row.

Upon arrival at Towson, the regiment experienced its most difficult competition since the band started competing in 1986. Hurricane Tammy became the first real force to possibly end Kiski's unprecedented and unchallenged streak. For the first time in its 30 year history, Bands of America had to cancel a Regional competition due to weather complications. Hence, KA band members, and 23 other bands never left their buses to compete as they sat devastated and in tears in the stadium lot. Kiski's season had ended on those buses. Or had it?

Mr. Pityk, the band staff, and the boosters realized that the season could not end in a torrent of rain, tears, and disappointment. Hence, because of the efforts and donations of many individuals, the Kiski Band reserved a spot in the following week's regional in Pontiac, MI.

Drum Major Leah VanDenHeuvel said, "When we found out that BOA had denied our chance to perform, we were devastated. It was a horribly anti-climactic end to a season where we all gave so much effort and devotion." Still, the band captured its Class AA title at Pontiac, despite unbelievable odds, especially with only one practice during the week before they left. Thanks to so many, the streak remains alive.

Kaley Thoma awaits Leah's start on another practice rep of We Will Rock You. Spending four years in the guard program, Kaley, along with Korinda Berry led the girls this season.

Much to the delight and surprise of everyone, on the seventh day of band camp, the Kennywood trolley brought greetings to the band members on the practice field. Later in the month, the band participated in Kennywood's annual Fall Fantasy Parade.

Drum Major Leah VanDenHeuvel conducts the band during a Monday evening rehearsal in mid-September. Along with her assistant, Joe Scheller, the two kept the band in time throughout a very difficult show.

Adhering to band traditions, section leaders and assistant Joe all gathered at Leah's house to create the show sign. For years, a football field has appeared on the sign. The painters represented the field as the hyphen between the 05 and 06.

Strike a Pose...

Senior Kayla Ritenour nails her opening pose in Pinball Wizard. "The funniest thing to happen in show choir this year was in Rocky Top when Eddie lost his shoe doing the side kicks and Chris Dunlay almost kicked him in the head," said Kayla. Kayla lived in Washington Township with two cats named Tony and Scout, and a dog named Bailey.

Back Breaking Bodies...

Ed Newell lifts Samantha Shaner in Kaleidoscope's performance of Defying Gravity from the musical Wicked. When asked about the worst lift she ever underwent in show choir, Sam said, "It was a back flip because I got kicked in the head." In addition to performing in show choir, Sam sang Soprano II in Chorale.

Wicked Voice...

Autumn Armagost sings a solo in Take One Show Choir's performance of Popular from the musical Wicked. On her vocal training, Autumn said, "I took voice lessons a while ago outside of school." In chorus, Autumn sang Alto I.

Show Choirs Continue Pilgrimage Tradition

Story by Jenna Fannin

Just before the December holiday break, everyone anticipated family and friend traditions to help celebrate the season. For the show choirs, one such tradition channeled them once again to Delmont, PA to perform in front of many members of the extended community. The Delmont Pilgrimage offered a spiritual experience where guests could step back in time to visit the holiday throughout the ages. With smooth moves and orchestrated lifts, both Kaleidoscope and Take One brightened everyone's spirits just in time for the holiday break.

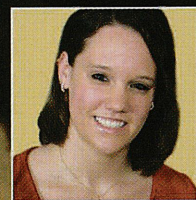

On December 7th, 2005, both show choirs, along with Jazz Rock, took the stage in the lower level of St. John De Le Salle Church to dazzle those that chose to partake in the pilgrimage.

Armed with six numbers each, both show choirs aimed to please the crowd. Take One took the stage first and mesmerized the audience with Queen of Soul, Popular, Girls Night Out, Wedding Bell Blues, Queen of Hearts, and Survivor. About Take One's performance, Mrs. Rupert said, "For so early in the season, my girls performed incredibly."

Taking the stage after Jazz Rock, Kaleidoscope truly brought down the house. Performing Big City Swing, Defying Gravity, Rocky Top, Pinball Wizard, Mississippi Mud, and A Little Less Conversation, the intricate dance moves definitely wowed the crowd. "I knew that the talent in Kaleidoscope this year would be phenomenal. We had to bump up the difficulty of both the vocals and dance accordingly and the students have more than risen to my expectations," said Mrs. Rupert. After the Kiski performances, everyone left a bit more ready to celebrate the season.

Chris Dunlay leaps far off the ground in Rocky Top. The song showcased the men in a country-style, high-spirited offering of song and dance.

Melena Robertson shows off her flexibility in a Back Attitude move during Take One's show. Melena also sang in Mrs. Rupert's third period Women's Chorus.

Kelsey Shoupe and Brad Lookabaugh sit back to back during Defying Gravity. When asked about the most crowd pleasing part of Kaleidoscope's show, the ensemble agreed that Rocky Top truly brought the house down.

Autumn Armagost, Alison Jaskiewicz, Melena Robertson, and Dani Krivoski wow the crowd at the end of Wedding Bell Blues. The girls and the rest of Take One performed their entire show twice for the crowds at St. John church.

OUT of the shadows

up and over for the big kill...

Kayla Ritenour launches skyward for the kill against the faculty players during the annual NHS Student/Faculty Volleyball game. "It was an interesting match, especially having to face such intimidating opponents as Dianne Haney," said Kayla. The faculty won the match by a score of 11-6.

what brought the 2006 theme "out of the shadows?"

Story by Mary Mangus

Gracing the lot at 240 Hyde Park Road, the newly renovated high school stood as a triumph in architecture. Furthermore, the school received the highly coveted Golden Trial Award for excellence in construction. Still, the school's inhabitants certainly made many sacrifices to ensure a grand facility for future Cavaliers.

For nearly four years, students, faculty, staff, and administration endured a not-so-"Golden Trial" reality. Amidst a transition period plagued with dust, scrap metal, ugly concrete floors, and unbelievable detours to class, everyone submitted to the demands of the cause. However, the KA Class of 2006 seemed to have made more concessions than most.

"We knew going into renovations that our entire student body would have to adjust to many unknown complications. The 2006 graduating class met all those demands throughout their time at the high school and did so willingly. Thank you to every graduating class member for your continued cooperation," said Mr. Nicholas about the four-year construction.

Consequently, while Out of the Dust, Out of the Scraps, and Out of the Detours could have just as easily captured a small essence of the Class of 2006 high school experience, Out of the Shadows more appropriately reflected their incredible attitude. From those shadows emerged many possibilities in the Class of 2006.

editors of the year

When selecting the editor(s) of the year, I certainly had the best from which to choose. Still, I chose two individuals this year, each for different reasons. First, I simply had to recognize Cheryl Fedorchak as my opening choice for Editor of the Year.

As the once understudy of previous editor of the year, Chris Shuss, Cheryl has since brilliantly helped to keep all financial records for the past two yearbooks. Most likely handling more money as a Kiski High School student than any other in the district's history, Cheryl helped raise over $170,000 to more than pay for three historical records. Still, I chose Cheryl as the first editor of the year for other reasons. I picked Cheryl because I trusted Cheryl with all monies and because she gave more than any other editor to every cause. Congrats Fedorchak. The 2006-2007 staff will miss your contributions dearly.

Next, I chose Steve Lucas as the second editor of the year. Steve learned from previous editor of the year Lindsey Spang and has taken her expertise to the next level. Over the past three years, the Campus Yearbook has swiftly become the national prototype for excellence in digital effects—a direct reflection of Steve's efforts. Still, Steve's abilities go well beyond applying effects; he owned an exceptional eye for layout and design. Experts have noticed that each area in Kiski's yearbook displays a uniquely inspired design that reflects the nature of its section. Congratulations and thank you Steve for your creative genius.

Finally, thank you senior editors Pat, Liz, Murr, Cup, Leah, and Dan. Certainly, your efforts too have brought the theme and success of this book out of the shadows.

grace and elegance in. motion

story by patrick kessler

Kiski Area Marching Band competitions regularly attracted tremendous crowds with their stirring sounds and the flashy sights of the Colorguard. Somewhat less well attended, the Winterguard performances nevertheless demonstrated the skill, talent, and dedication of many of the same competitors. Contrary to popular belief, the Winterguard never acted as a training camp for traffic directors; rather, it served as instruction for well-disciplined dancers with excellent hand-eye coordination. Coached by IUP student James Schaeffer and Gateway school nurse Kristi Yalch, the Winterguard worked their way through an arduous but ultimately rewarding season.

The purportedly sweatshop-like practices generally lasted three to five hours as the room echoed with the clap of flags, sabers, and wooden rifles as the guardians performed hundreds of drop spins and the coaches demanded smiles and louder counting. "This year's Winterguard is going to be really great," said Coach Schaefer to prospective winter guardians during the two-day, six-hour tryouts, "so I want to see you all give it your best now." The grueling workouts and the leadership of the coaches and captains Kaley Thoma and Korinda Berry led to an enormously successful 2006 season that rivaled even the previous year's Regional performance in New York City.

cavaliers gather for charity

story by dan aiello

The unofficial start to every winter in the Kiski Area School District, the 2005 Christmas Telethon kicked off on Monday, December 12. For the next five days, students all across the district raised money for the Salvation Army and St. Vincent de Paul Society. During that time, members of the Telethon Committee and Technology Services Team graced K-Mart and Comcast Ch. 8 with the production of the telethon.

Besides those two organizations, high school students participated in an array of activities. With students feverishly putting money into the class challenge and taking chances on winning a wonderful prize (or two) in the raffle and auction, the telethon raised over $20,000. Over $4,000 came from the class challenge, in which another Cinderella story, the sophomores, pulled a "2005 junior class" and overtook the seniors in the final two days of the challenge. When asked about the devastating defeat, senior Max Moio said, "It was a shame we couldn't pull out the victory after having such a big lead, but it all goes to charity, which is most important." Max's sentiments indeed held truth, as the 2005 Telethon gave great hope to those in need.

Lauren Roberts takes the mic and plays a Christmas trivia game on air. I regards to the telethon, she said, "It was a lot of fun especially because we were raising money for a charity." In Lauren's spare time, she enjoyed playing tennis, taking pictures, and shopping.

double donation...

Justina Crofutt and Danielle Pityk man the donation table inside K-Mart. "I had a fun time with Dani P," said Justina. Outside of school, Justina lived in Washington Acres with her three cats, one dog, and one fish.

happy endings...

From the K-Mart entrance, the telethon committee closes out the week with their final broadcast. "Although telethon undoubtedly took a lot work, the friends I made and all of the accomplishments made it all worthwhile," said Danielle Pugliese. Danielle kept very busy with other activities such as Student Council, Coalition for Acceptance, and Show Choirs.

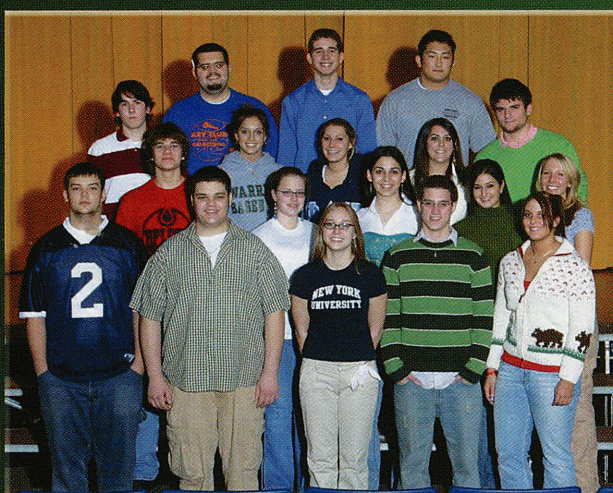

"It was crazy! I got to live on hot dogs for a week and sing on TV."

crew stands ready to inform

story by patrick kessler

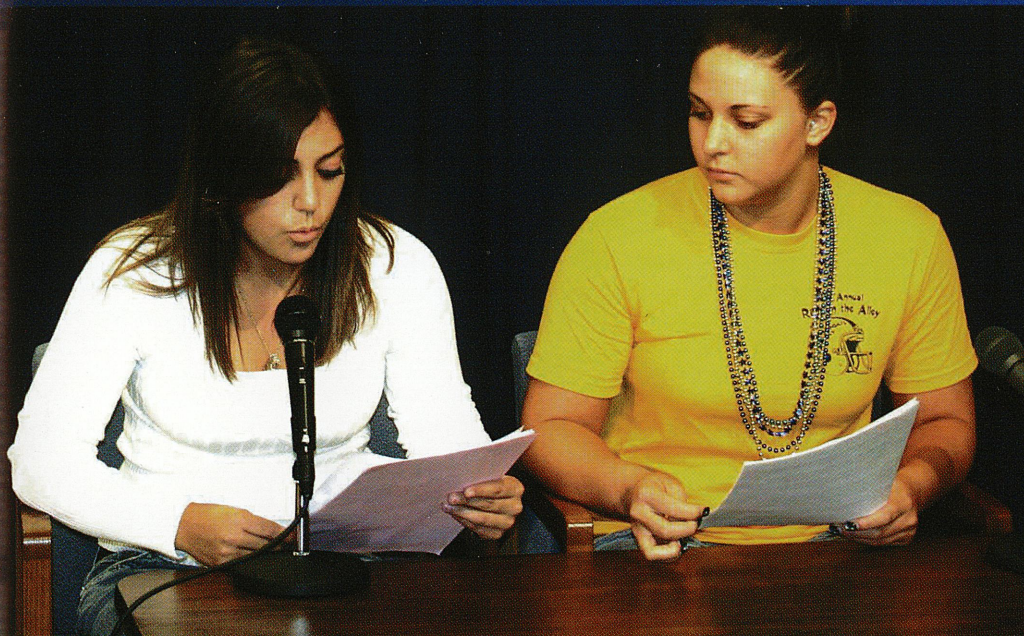

Every passing morning of the year brought with it two constants: the first, unsurprisingly, a crowd of students ready to start their day off properly, and the second, a small band of announcers and technical staff ready to deliver information to the student body. This coalition, known on air as Good Morning Kiski, appeared live each morning without fail to announce all pertinent information students would need to make it through their day.

Even though this morning announcement program appeared live and uncut each morning, it could hardly divulge all other truths and trials going on behind the camera. From an editing staff to various station and staff managerial teams to anchors, crew, and cameramen, it took a great number of people to put together an efficient show each morning. As sponsor Dr. Pipman agreed, the key to the best of presentations always consisted of keeping the lines of communication open during broadcasts. Consistently, the anchors and crew pulled together an effective and informative show each morning and thus brought "good mornings" to students every day.

it comes down to politics

story by stephen lucas

The 2004 presidential election introduced Kiski Area High School to The Politics. Started by then-juniors Stephen Lucas and Leah VanDenHeuvel, the club sought to raise political awareness during the election and provide a weekly forum for politically minded students. While the club's efforts proved effective, many failed to acknowledge the less dramatic local election in 2005. Lo and behold, members from The Politics again hit the polls on November 8, 2005, to greet voters with "I Voted!" stickers and complimentary candy.

Members engaged in a variety of community-enriching activities. In September, six members and sponsor Mr. Snedecor represented Kiski at the first annual Strongland Chamber of Commerce panel of five state legislators. Senior Chelsea Toy, reflecting on the experience, said "We put our work to use by talking with the people who will be representing us in Harrisburg."

When not working for the community, members often discussed various hot-topic political concerns at weekly meetings. Although a slight majority of members labeled themselves as democrats, forty percent affiliated as republicans, libertarians, and members of other political parties.

Kayla Slicker passes out flyers at the Allegheny Township Community Building on election day. Kayla said, "Politics was a great experience for people to learn about politics and world happenings." Kayla and her boyfriend Jon Stefaniak, along with Shane Belin, Jesse Randall, and Dave Bierer performed in their band, The Hormones, at local events.

sweet rewards...

Deanna Klick, Sydney Martier, and Blair Saul hand out candy to people at the polls to thank them for voting. "Politicos was a lot of fun because we got the community as well as ourselves involved in our country's government," said Blair. When not manning the polls, Blair participated in both basketball and track at the high school.

poli-talks...

Armstrong County Board of Commissions member James Scahill, Mr. Snedecor, Chelsea Toy, and Steve Lucas talk about local issues at the Casino Theatre in September. "We really enjoyed speaking with all of the politicians on a one-to-one basis," said Steve about the event. Steve also served as Technology Editor of the Campus Yearbook Staff.

"It was a great organization for students to further their education in government and politics."

Deanna Klick

"Everyone was from different walks of life with very different opinions which made for very interesting discussions."

ignition of COGNITION

story by alex nigra

Envirothon and Quiz Team, two of the most successful clubs in the school, also stood as the most misunderstood clubs. Contrary to popular belief, Envirothon and Environmental Club referred to two different clubs, and the members of Quiz Team did not meet every other activity period to sit in a room and take quizzes, nor did they go to competitions to see which school could get the highest scores on a written exam. Envirothon members prepared all year under the guidance of Mr. Lemmon for the annual exam-style competition on aspects of nature.

Trivia Team would perhaps have made a more appropriate title for Quiz Team. During the Quiz Team competitions two teams competed head on and tried to buzz in first with an answer to a trivia question given to them by the Quiz Master. Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams competed at a very high level, and each performed well in the Mt. Pleasant League tournament, where the JV team came in second. When asked what part of Quiz Team he enjoyed the most, Zach Stickel said, "The most invigorating aspect of Academic Quiz Team is unequivocally the opportunity to test the intellectual prowess of the students of our school by matching it against the wits and intuition of students from other schools." All the members the two teams enjoyed the thrill of competition and the camaraderie.

God gave us a wonderful blessing when he brought you into our lives. You have brought us so much joy and happiness. Looking back, the years have really flown by. It is hard to believe you are a senior this year. It seems like you were just born, then you were going to kindergarten, and now here you are ready to graduate high school. We wonder where the time has gone. We have so many wonderful memories of all you have done, all the soccer games, ice hockey games, and everything in between. You have grown to be a very special person. One who has always been filled with kindness and respect. One who is always the first to say something good to someone. We have watched you have your hopes and dream your dreams. And we pray as you go off to college all your future hopes and dreams become a fantastic reality for you. We love you so very much and are so proud of you. Always know that you mean the world to us. Good luck and reach for the stars.

Launa ~

You have the ability to attain whatever you seek: within you is every potential you can imagine.

Always aim higher than you believe you can reach.

So often, you'll discover that when your talents are set free by your imagination, you can achieve any goal.

If people offer their help or wisdom as you go through life, accept it gratefully.

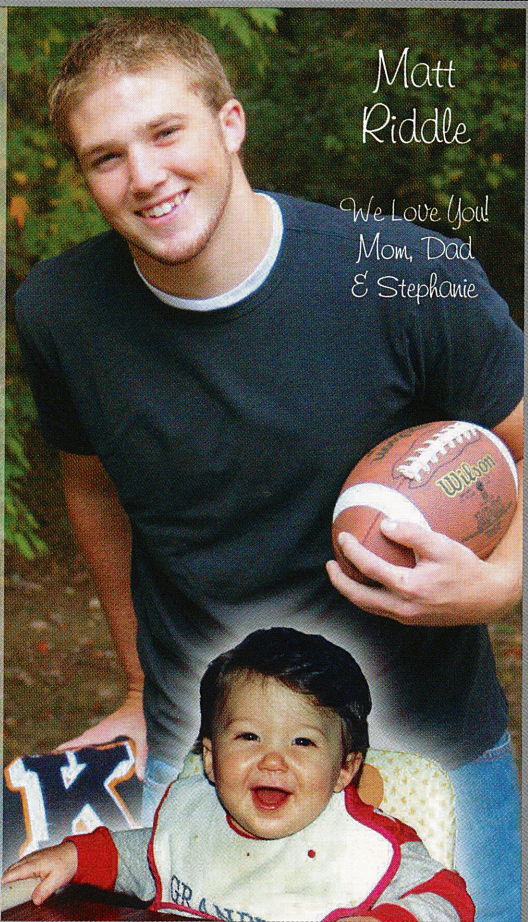

You can learn much from those who have gone before you.

Never be afraid or hesitant to step off the accepted path and head in your own direction if your heart tells you that it's the right way for you.

Always believe that you will ultimately succeed at whatever you do, and never forget the value of persistence, discipline, and determination.

You are meant to be whatever you dream of becoming.

Embrace the challenges and live your dreams! Face your future with courage for what lies behind you and what lies before you are small compared to what lies within you! Climb any mountain and believe without a doubt that you will succeed, for success is never an accident. It is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, intelligent direction, skillful execution, and the vision to see obstacles as opportunities.

You have always had a determined spirit in you, starting when you were very young and trying to keep up with (and fend off!) your older brother. If anyone can find the courage, climb any mountain, and find success, it will be you.

We are so proud of you, Steven. You have worked hard and all the while, been such a support and anchor. You always have been and always will be my joy... the little boy who always captures hearts with his smile.

We love you so much!

We love you!

You read by the age of 2, "Wheel of Fortune" was your favorite game show when you were 5, and by the time you were 7, you knew all the stats about the Steelers and many other football teams.

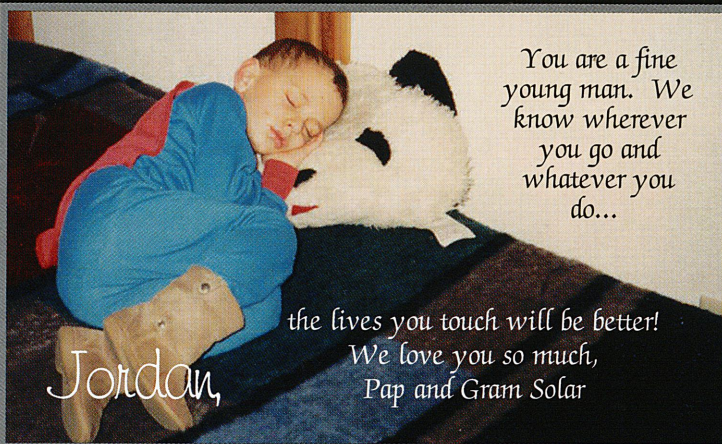

You amazed us then and have continued to do so. It's hard to believe your graduation is right around the corner and you will be college-bound.

We are proud of your choice of teaching as your career and are sure that your enthusiasm and compassion will inspire many children; they will experience what we have known all along-how special you are.

Stay true to yourself and always know that you have our respect, love, and support.

Dear Nathaniel,

Where have 18 years gone? It seems like only yesterday you were born, and we held you in our arms. Much sooner than later, you're now a senior in high school, ready to graduate. You have achieved much. We are so, so proud of you. Always:

Dream big dreams, envision your future, love with all your heart, and keep compassion, truth, wonder, serenity, hope, and joy in your soul!

Happiness Always!

Love,
Mom and Dad

Alyssa...

When you were little, we didn't know exactly what you would do with your life and how you would use your talents...

We hoped that you would grow to be a good-natured, fun-loving, and focused individual with a sense of purpose. A person who was loving, kind, thoughtful, and respectful... A young person who felt God's presence... A young lady who gave good things back to the world... and touched the lives of those around her in a deep and lasting way...

As you grew, we watched you learn to be your own person and follow your heart... for you that wasn't always easy... We watched you persevere and develop into that wonderful young person... And so much more...

We want you to know how blessed we have been to be your parents... How proud we are of all you've done... How deeply you have touched our lives... And... how happy we are with the awesome young woman you have become...

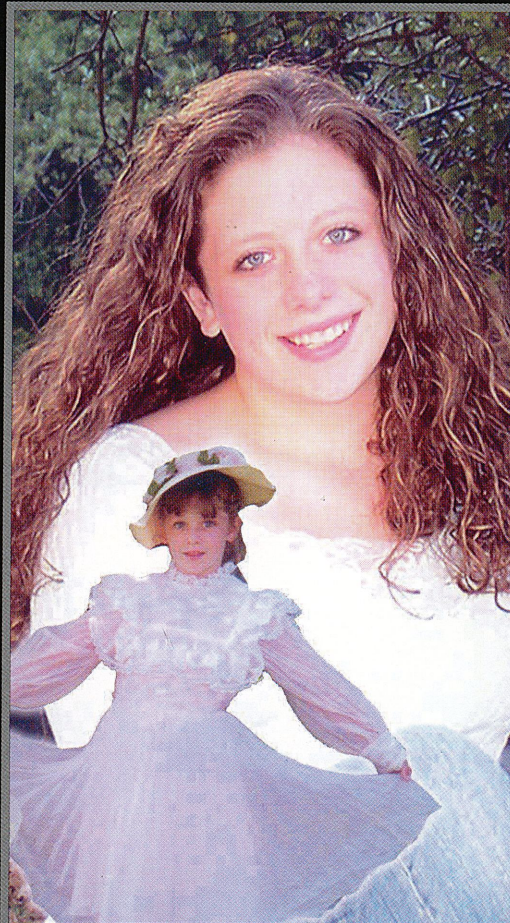

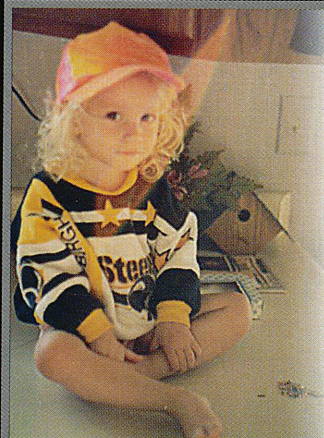

Love you...

Where to begin? "To the world you may be just one person, but to us, you are the world."

You have made us very proud - from the "Second" you were born (late, of course)... through all of your achievements, and now of the special young woman you've become.

Even though you consider being a "Middle Child" a curse, you have truly been a blessing to us.
Whether in academics, sports, church activities, or relationships, you seem to be at the center of it all and when things don't go just right, you are there waiting for a "second chance." Don't ever lose your spirit; it is part of who you are and where you will go.

God has truly blessed us with our "Second" born daughter.
May He continue to bless you and watch over you. Always keep your faith in God and He will keep His faith in you as you continue the journey, making the most of every second of the rest of your life.

- You deserve the best - Love Always and Forever, Mom, Dad, Janelle, and

All that a parent could hope and dream for in a child came true for us the day that you were born.
Your respect and kindness toward others is an inspiration to everyone that you meet. "Proud," just can't describe the admiration we have for you. Your scholastic achievements have always set you apart.
On the road of life that is ahead of you, always remember that we will both be there, as both parents and friends, to help guide you, yet never to lead you - for you are a leader.

With all our love,

Mom and Dad

PS: Where did Skippy go?

You have made us very proud. You've grown to be a caring, loving, thoughtful and generous adult. We are not doubtful that you will accomplish all you set your mind to do.

We will always be there to support and
love you.

With love and respect,

Mom and Dad

Samantha...

This is a wonderful chance to tell you how special you are and how easy it is to be proud of you. Maybe you don't realize how much it's always meant to have you for a daughter, to see you grow up so beautifully without ever growing away from those who love you. We wish you the best and always remember we are here for you.

The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams.
Start living your dreams.

To my beautiful daughter, Amy...

Our family was truly blessed the

It seems like yesterday that we put you on the bus to start kindergarten.

Every step of the way you have made us proud with your intelligence, maturity, independence, and caring ways. The foundation is there...time to build the house.

Not that you need it, but Good Luck in all that you do. We know you will be successful in all that you do.

Love always,

Dad, Mom, Brett, and

From the time you were little, you've held a special place in our hearts, with your great sense of humor, wit, kindness, and charm. We still remember the time we couldn't find the cat one night; the next morning, I opened your dresser drawer and out he ran!

You've kept us on our toes and young at heart. We will miss you, but we know you are ready to conquer the world. So, we're happy for you! Your beauty, talents, intelligence, and keen intuitiveness, along with a mature common sense, will not go unnoticed.

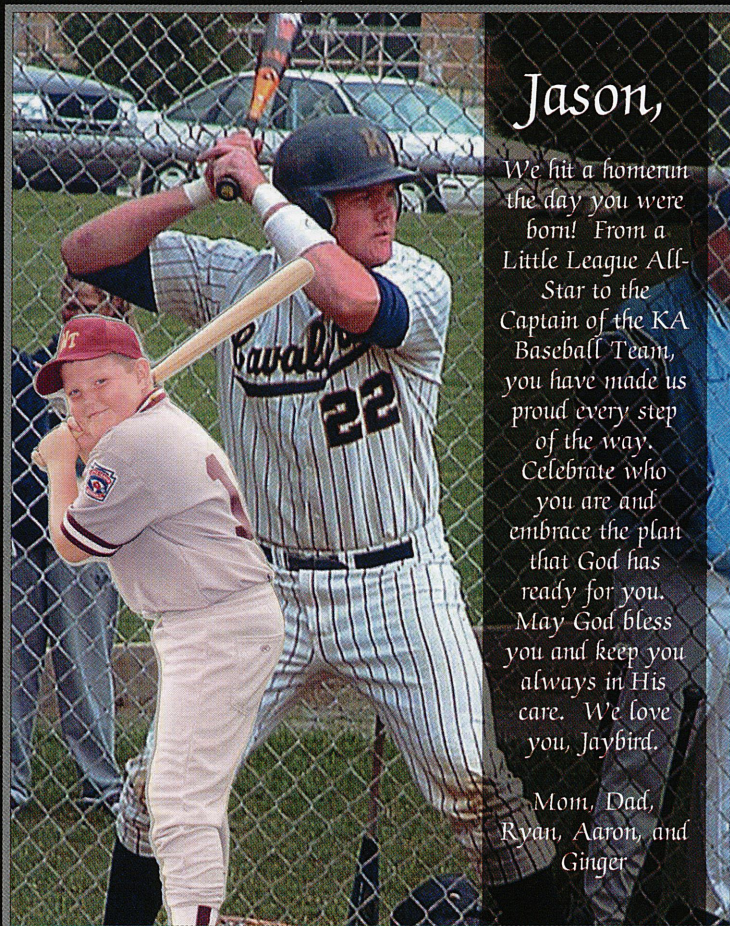

We are proud of you, April.

Dear April,

Jordan,

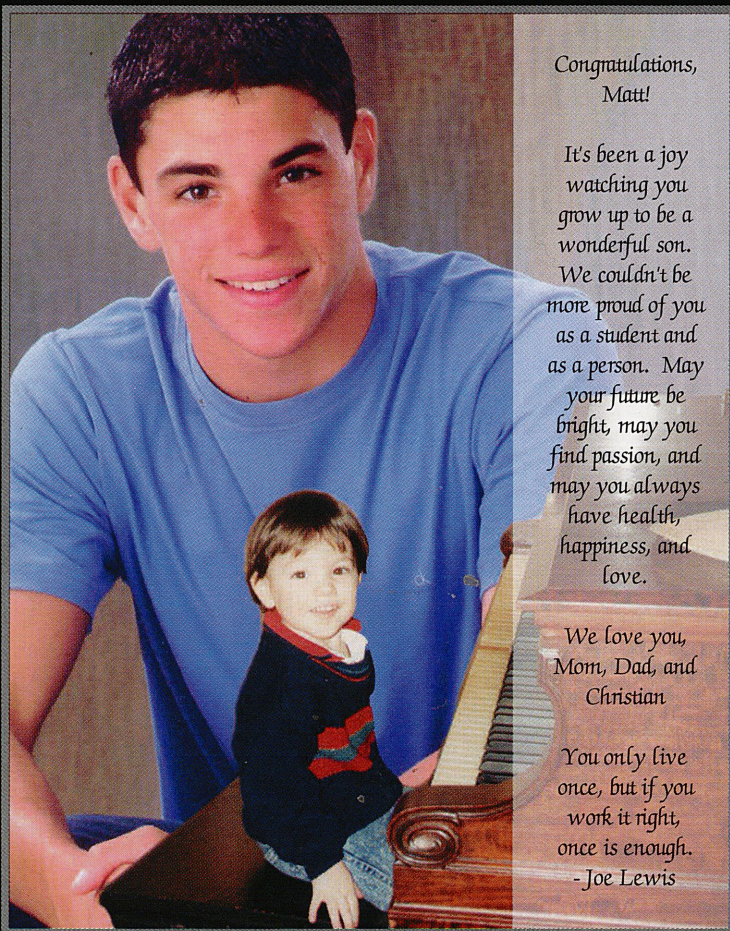

We Love You,
Mom and Dad

You have learned reading, writing and arithmetic. You have learned to run, throw, jump, and shoot. You have learned to fish, golf, hunt, play poker, and camp on a hill. You have learned from your successes and failures. You have learned to be a good brother, good friend, and good teammate. You have learned to set goals and learned the fun is in the experience of reaching those goals. You have learned about earning and giving respect. You have learned the significance of your handshake and of your word. You have learned the Lord works in mysterious ways. You have learned your accomplishments come from people saying you could, as well as some people saying you could not.

As your parents, we know these things are the parts that equal the sum of the young man you are today and form a strong foundation for the man you will be tomorrow.

Jordan, thank you for making these 18 years so enjoyable.

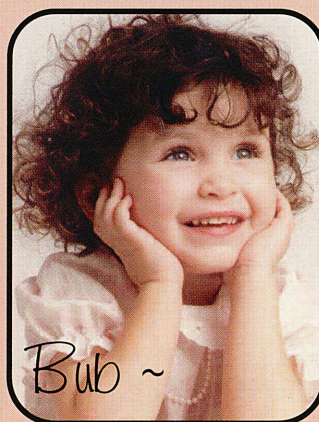

Congratulations,
Matt!

It's been a joy watching you grow up to be a wonderful son. We couldn't be more proud of you as a student and as a person. May your future be bright, may you find passion, and may you always have health, happiness, and love.

We Love you,
Mom, Dad, and

Through the years, we have watched you change from a toddler with your ever-present wings and a tail, pet chickens and turtles, to a teenager known as "Coach Kid," mentoring the younger kids, and becoming a member of the Honor Society and marching band. You have kept us on our toes - always wanting to try something new or different. And we loved every minute of every day simply because you were never afraid to be your own person.

Our "little buddy" has matured and grown into a beautiful, confident, young woman. Now you are off to college, starting a new exciting adventure.

We are so very proud of you, of the woman you have become, and all that you have accomplished. Keep living your dreams and reaching for the stars.

Jenna, and Jared

Kyle,

In these 18 years, you have made us proud. You accomplished so much, yet so much lies ahead. Remember to live your life fully as you venture to college and learn from all that you may encounter. Throw hard, throw straight, and hit your goals. Stay away from the rocks as you float down the river of life. We will always be there for you, always help you if you need it, and always love you, no matter where life takes you.

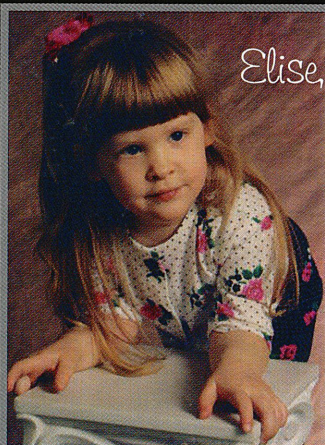

Love bunches,
Mom and Dad

My Little Lyss,

I'm so proud of the person you have become.

Love, Mom

Elise,

Go boldly in pursuit of your dreams. What you have already accomplished is only the beginning of the amazing things you are capable of. Your happiness and success lie within you. We have always been and will always be very proud of you!

We love you Leesy-Lou
Dad, Mom, and Sarah

Bethany,

Congratulations
Bethany,

From coloring to cashier... home school
to high school... youth to young lady...

We've always been proud of you and look forward to seeing your future plans succeed.

We love you, and
"we'll always love you."

Proverbs 16:3

Love
Dad, Mom, Salvatore, and Brianna

YOU'VE MADE IT!

You have made me so proud.

From the moment
you were born, I have wanted nothing but the best for you in life.

I cannot promise you that the world will always be kind, but always know that I will be here to guide you when you need guidance, to listen when you need to talk, to lift you when you're down, and to always love you.

Congratulations Baby!

Love, Mom

Travis,

If we could gather up all the smiles, memories, and pride you've brought us through the years and give them back to you, we would. Maybe then you'd be able to see just how much happiness you've added to our lives and why you're one of the three most important people in the world to us.

We Love You,
Mom and Dad

My Sweet Justine,

I am so proud of you... not only for everything you've done... dancing, music, athletics, and scholastically... but because you have so much spirit and determination... and you are so loving and caring... you are always my best.

... Mom

Bryan...

You complete
our family.
We love
you.
Mom, Dad
and Lucy

Faith is taking the first step when you don't see the whole staircase.
Follow
your heart and enjoy your individuality.
Remember, the journey is the reward.

We Love
You!

Mom and Dad

Always smiling...
On to greater lessons...
And forever in our hearts!

We Love You, Elysse!

The 2005-2006 Campus Yearbook staff chose "Out of the Shadows" as the theme to reflect the emergence of the new school facility. We aimed to demonstrate how the high school and everyone who walked its halls came out of the shadows, and into the light.

After four years spent under the vigilant eyes of our teachers, administrators, and idealized mascot, we, the graduating class of 2006, had little in common with the freshman class of 2002. All of our experiences, those common and those diverse, enabled us to realize many life lessons, chief among them that our time belonged to us, for better or for worse, to do with as we saw fit. We learned that however we spent our time, some would feel we could have spent it more wisely. We learned to listen to these people only when among them. We learned that four years always stands exactly long enough to accomplish what takes four years, and that change alone remains constant in life. Confined by walls and schedules, constructs both physical and social, we learned to recognize less obvious barricades that, by their obscure nature, belied their profound influence on our lives—barriers that would otherwise slip from our notice, not only before, behind, above, below, and to the sides, but also within and without, no matter their constituent materials. We learned to see these structures through others' eyes without falling prey to the biases of the viewers. We learned that whether, as Hamlet said, the world was a goodly prison "in which there are many confines, wards and dungeons," or as Voltaire wrote, "Man is free at the moment he wishes to be," each notion opens itself to individual interpretation. All of these lessons drove us to spurn comfort in favor of freedom, to forfeit ease to gain understanding, to forsake carnal pleasures for the betterment of our surroundings and ourselves, and to strive, as our fiery avian counterpart, the phoenix, to always storm violently...

Out of the Shadows!

... AND
INTO THE
